SLIGHT REACTION TO SILVER RISE

H.K. AND SHANGHAI DOLLARS FIRM

MORGENTHAU'S ADDRESS HAS BULLISH EFFECT

There has been no marked reaction in Hongkong or Shanghai to the over-night increase in London Silver prices or to the apparently "bullish" statements of the Secretary of the United States Treasury, Mr. Henry Morgenthau, with respect to the American silver policy.

The Hongkong dollar advanced a quarter to 2s. 4½d. and in Shanghai the foreign exchange market was steady, with rates around yesterday's closing levels.

The absence of firmness in Shanghai is due to the belief that London silver prices rose too sharply, which view is substantiated by the fact that business was done at a halfpenny below the official price after the fixing, says the United Press.

The general consensus of opinion in Shanghai is that Mr. Morgenthau's speech was bullish for silver and bearish for sterling in relation to the United States dollar, this agency adds.

Although silver prices in London yesterday substantially advanced, following the bullish interpretation of Mr. Morgenthau's speech on America's monetary policy, the Hongkong dollar rose only a furthering this morning, the sellers and 2s. 6½/16d. buyers.

With the local dollar failing to react to silver prices, the market on opening was very quiet, the business rates being 2s. 5½d. sellers and 2s. 6½/16d. buyers.

In London, silver rose 1½d. spot and 1½/16d. forward. India and China bought, but sellers were scarce. The market closed uncertain, with business done at the finish a halfpenny under the rate.

SHANGHAI RATES

Shanghai, May 15.

Opening rates on the Foreign Exchange Market to-day were U.S. dollars, 41½¢, Sterling, 1/8½, and Gold Bars $773.80.—United Press.

NEW YORK MARKET

New York, May 14.

Messrs. Hoadly & Harmon quoted silver 74 7/8 cents per ounce to-day.

On the foreign exchange market the dollar was steady.

On the New York Cotton Exchange the strength of distant deliveries featured the most active dealings. Old crops at times displayed an easier undertone. The market was dominated by Government operations in future deliveries. The advances were attributed to dealer accounts supporting the market.

Silk prices were one to half a point higher in a moderately active market. The undertone was steady and dealers supported the market especially in the near deliveries.—United Press.

JAPANESE ARMY PROTEST

CHINA EMBASSY NOT FULLY APPROVED

Tokyo, May 15.

At a meeting of the Cabinet, the War Minister declared that although some sections of the Army oppose the raising of the Japanese Legation in China to an Embassy, the Army authorities as a whole are not opposed thereto.

He hoped, however, in view of the importance of Chinese problems, that closer contacts would be maintained between the Foreign Office and Army officials concerning future concrete measures in connection with China.—Reuter.

AUSTRIA TO BUILD AIR FORCE

VON STARHEMBERG TO COMMAND

TESTING OPINION

Vienna, May 14.

Following the example of Germany, Austria has taken what will be regarded as a decisive step towards the building up of an official Air Force, contrary to the terms of the Treaty of Versailles. A meeting of the General Staff of the Heimehr to-night, at which the Vice-Chancellor and Heimehr chief, Prince von Starhemberg presided, it was decided to form a special Heimehr Flying Corps.

Prince von Starhemberg will be the commander-in-chief. The move is regarded in political circles as an experiment to test the Little Entente's attitude towards an Austrian Air Force.—Reuter.

POLAND'S GRIEF KING'S MESSAGE OF SYMPATHY

London, May 14.

The King, in a message to the President of the Polish Republic says:—"It is with deep regret, Monsieur Le President, that I have learned of the grievous loss which the Polish nation has sustained through the death of Marshal Jozef Pilsudski, whose great qualities of leadership, both as a soldier and a statesman, were so unapprisingly devoted to his country's service.

"In expressing to you my sincere condolences on the death of one who had earned so prominent a place in the admiration and affection of his countrymen, I would ask you to be so good as to convey to Madame Pilsudski and her daughters an assurance of my sincere sympathy with them in their bereavement."

Field-Marshal the Earl of Cavan will represent the British Army at Pilsudski's funeral.—British Wireless.

MANCHULI PARLEY

Changchun, May 15.

The Manchukuo authorities have notified the Outer Mongolian Government of their concurrence in the suggestion that Manchuli should be the venue of the coming Manchukuo-Outer-Mongolia Parley for the settlement of the outstanding border disputes. They also agreed that the parley should commence on May 28.—Central News.

Sir Charles Kingsford Smith, noted aviator, who has sent out an S.O.S. whilst crossing the Tasman Sea. He is flying with mails to New Zealand.

Australian Airman In Distress

KINGSFORD SMITH CALLS FOR AID

FLYING OVER TASMAN SEA

Wellington, May 14.

Sir Charles Kingsford Smith, famous Australian pilot, who left Sydney yesterday on a special Jubilee flight with a huge load of air mail for New Zealand, has wirelessed that he is in difficulties half-way across the Tasman Sea, with one propeller gone and another engine spluttering.

"I am dumping cargo. Unable to keep height. May have to dump mails and petrol. Hope Sydney will have fast destroyer handy but hope reach coast."

Later

Sir Charles has sent out an S.O.S., giving his position as 600 miles from Sydney.

Apparently there are no ships near him. Nor are there any planes here fit to go to the rescue. The cruiser Canberra, however, is being despatched.—Reuter.

FAMOUS PLANE

A later Reuter despatch from Sydney states that Sir Charles was flying his famous plane, the Southern Cross, and left the N.S.W. capital at 20 minutes after midnight, local time.

He has with him his companion of many adventures, Navigator Taylor, and a wireless operator named Stannage.

They were carrying 34,000 letters and 1,400 pounds of freight, part of which was taken from Ulm's former plane, Faith of Australia which had intended to accompany the Southern Cross on their flight to New Zealand.

Tennis Career Finished

VINCENT RICHARDS ARM DAMAGED

New York, May 14.

Vincent Richards, famous American professional lawn tennis player and former Davis Cup sensation, who, partnered with Tilden, has been touring the world and playing exhibitions for the past few months, has announced that his tennis career is finished.

He has been rendered unfit for further tournament play as a result of a motor accident on May 10, in which he sustained a triple fracture of the right arm.—Reuter.

SCORES PERISH IN MINE

CAVE-IN NEAR TSINGTAO

RESCUERS HELPLESS

Tsingtao, May 15.

It is feared that 400 miners have perished in a cave-in in the Chichuen District coal mines, near Tsingtao.

While over 400 were below ground yesterday afternoon, the whole roof of one of the largest drift workings collapsed.

Besides the miners, there were eleven Chinese and Japanese engineers underground. It is feared that all have perished.

To add to the horror, immediately after the cave-in, water poured into the workings. Even if, before the flooding, the miners might have been reached before they suffocated behind the wall of rock which cut them off from succour, the rising water made hope of rescue too remote to be considered.

Nevertheless, rescue gangs immediately set to work in the undamaged end of the drift. They cut a way to water and attempted to pump the interior workings free. The pumps failed.

Hope for the entombed men has now been abandoned.—Central News.

Hunt To Save Whales

SAILORS SHOOT, BUT NOT TO KILL

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By "Telegraph," Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924. Received, May 14, 8 a.m.)

London, May 14.—Between seven and eight hundred whales are roaming the Antarctic seas with long steel bullets fired into their blubber.

This has been done with the object of discovering where the whales go at different periods of the year. The Royal Research Ship, William Goresby, has had the work in hand.

The vessel has just returned to London after seven months in the Antarctic seas on its whale-marking expedition.

Already about a score of bullets have been recovered from whales captured by various whaling fleets.

Regulations may be made to protect the industry and to preserve the whales from danger of extinction, as a result of this "marking" operation by the British research party.—Reuter Special.

London, May 14.

The Royal Research Ship William Scoresby, which has been absent seven months in Antarctic waters, has returned to London, after voyaging 17,600 miles. She has been employed in studying the movements of whales, of which during the voyage 800 were marked with steel darts used for this purpose.

Valuable information regarding migration habits is acquired and charted from the data available when the whales are killed, and the darts, which are numbered, are forwarded to the Colonial Office.—British Wireless.

The Polish community at Nanking will hold a service here in honour of Marshal Pilsudski, under the auspices of the Polish Legation.—United Press.

Lieut.-Col. T. E. Lawrence, who has been seriously injured in a motor-cycle crash.

Lawrence's Condition Critical

MOTHER NOTIFIED IN CHINA

BROTHER FLIES TO LONDON

(Special to "Telegraph")

London, May 14.

Colonel T. E. Lawrence, the man who conquered the Turks and their allies in Arabia, is lying unconscious in hospital with a fractured skull, and very near to death.

He deliberately wrecked his motor-cycle in an attempt to avoid striking a boy cyclist, Albert Hargreaves, 15. Hargreaves was very slightly hurt in the collision which Lawrence could not quite prevent.—United Press.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

London, May 14.

Lieut.-Col. T. E. Lawrence, Britain's hero of Arabia, injured yesterday when he attempted to avoid a collision with a boy on a bicycle, is known to be in a critical condition. He will be unconscious for several days, doctors said.

The veil of official secrecy was lifted this afternoon and it was admitted that Lawrence, or T. E. Shaw, as he is now legally named, was suffering from concussion and a fractured skull.

Major-General J. W. West, honorary surgeon to His Majesty the King, and another specialist, were called into consultation. The consultation lasted until nearly midnight, after which it was announced that Lawrence's condition was still critical but there were hopes for his recovery.

The authorities in London are being kept constantly informed of Lawrence's condition.

Lawrence was apparently flung a considerable distance from the motor-cycle he was riding. It is thought he jammed on his brakes to their fullest in an attempt to avoid a collision with a boy cyclist, who was slightly hurt and is suffering from a mild concussion.

Lawrence's brother has arrived in London by air from the South of France. Mrs. Lawrence, mother of the famous "civillian soldier," and his elder brother, who are in China, have been notified by wireless of the accident.—Reuter.

N.R.A. EXTENSION APPROVED

BUT ONLY FOR TEN MONTHS

Washington, May 14.

The extension of the N.R.A. for ten months, instead of two years, as demanded by the Administration, was voted almost unanimously by the Senate, after Senator La Follette had issued a warning that it would kill the recovery law "as dead as a door nail."

The measure was then sent to the House of Representatives, where it is believed that leaders favour extension for two years.—Reuter.

PARIS TESTS HER AIR DEFENCES

POPULACE OBSERVES EFFECT OF RAID

CAN GUNS STOP FLEET OF FAST PLANES?

(By "Telegraph," Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924. Received, May 15, 8 a.m.)

Paris, May 14.

The city's first air raid drill was held to-day, and lasted from 10 until 10.45 a.m., after six drill sirens had screamed their warning in different parts of the city. Their shrill clamour told the populace that enemy aircraft were approaching and the tattoo of anti-aircraft Batteries confirmed the news.

Thousands of Parisians lining the boulevards witnessed realistic picture of an air raid of the future. Police and firemen were weird robot-like figures, clad in brilliant yellow gas-proof suits, with a peaked hood and big black-snouted gas-masks.

They rushed from place to place where theatrical gas-bombs were dropped.

Fire engines raced through the streets with a great clanging of bells and ambulances followed them, seeking for gassed citizens. Firemen were detailed to play these unpleasant parts.

The casualties were conveyed to underground first aid stations, rendered air-tight by a series of rubber curtains, where Red Cross nurses were in attendance.

These air raid drills are being carried out in every capital of Europe. Berlin has seen the most carefully planned and executed, the most extensive and realistic. There were real bombs used in the Berlin demonstrations.

Meanwhile, experts are attempting to prove whether or not a barrage of gas-shells and shrapnel, fired by anti-aircraft batteries, can stop an air fleet bent upon the destruction of a city. It is generally conceded that the only effective weapon in meeting an invasion of aircraft is an equally powerful air fleet.—Reuter Special.

There were no surprising failures among the 113 golfers playing around to-day in the Dunlop Southport professional tourney. Charles Whitcombe, the international player, headed the field with an aggregate of 144.

Henry Cotton, the British Open Champion, was not in championship form and needed 154 to complete the course. He qualified safely, however. British opinion favours Cotton to win.—Reuter.

His Majesty the King to-day received at Buckingham Palace Mr. Geoffrey Knox, chairman of the Saar Governing Commission at the time when the plebiscite was in progress.

SEX DOES MATTER

BOYS NEED MEN
AS TEACHERS

SCHOOLMASTER
TELLS WHY

A strong attack on the "feminists" of the teaching profession, who, he said, to gain their own selfish ends would willingly wreck the educational system of this country and invert society itself, was made by Mr. F. C. Arkless in his presidential address at the annual conference of the National Association of Schoolmasters at Swansea. Mr. Arkless also criticised the Board of Education.

Mr. Arkless said that he was not at all sure that the development of character in our schools was viewed with favour by "the powers that be." It was true, he added, that the Board of Education, in the "suggestions for teachers," placed the development of character in the forefront of the work of the schools, yet was this not merely "eye wash"?

"Character has its basis in sex. A man is not a fitting person to develop the character of a girl for the simple reason that he has never trod the path she is to tread. For the same reason, a woman is not a fitting person to develop character in a boy."

"Yet the Board of Education is content to allow thousands and thousands of boys to remain under the control and influence of women teachers."

"And what of the teaching profession itself? It consists of men, women, and feminists. To our women colleagues we pay high and sincere tribute. The girls in our schools are immeasurably enriched by virtue of their unselfish devotion and their womanly qualities. Unfortunately, many of them are the victims of a system and find themselves in charge of boys' classes."

SELFISH ENDS

"The feminists are in a different category altogether. We are thankful that they do not, and never shall, represent womanhood. To gain their own selfish ends they would willingly wreck the educational system and invert society itself. The glamour they raise is out of all proportion to their numbers. 'Sex does not matter,' they cry in their shrill and strident voices, or through the mezzobanities of their paid propagandists—persons with no professional responsibilities, with no relation to the children in the schools, with no thought but to earn their money by piping the tune, with infinite variations, they are paid to play."

"But in spite of the feminist nature remains natural. Sex does matter. There are problems to be met with in boys' classes—sex problems whose nature does not allow of their discussion from the house tops, problems of far greater moment than arithmetic or composition, or any other subject of the curriculum, problems fundamental to life itself."

"The feminist would say they do not exist, or they do not matter. Any schoolmaster of experience knows they do exist. Probably only a man would be aware of them. Certainly only a man can deal with them."

To place women as the standard of imitation before boys above the age of seven was to place the wrong standard before them, and infantilism, due to arrested development, would result.

For physiological, psychological, and psychic reasons a boy needed the supervision, the help, the

SUN-BATHING WARNING

Dr. W. Hunter, Medical Officer of Health for West Bridgford, Notts, in his annual report, says that the modern craze for sun-bathing may be dangerous. He declares that by causing skin irritation it may lead to pre-cancerous conditions, and actually to cancer of exposed parts of the body. The public, and especially young people, should be warned to avoid unnecessary sunburn. It was remarkable that the cancer mortality of the world was highest in Switzerland, which was considered a health resort, and lowest in Japan, where great poverty was not unknown.

guidance, which only a man could give.

"It is," proceeded Mr. Arkless, "the indisputable right of the boy to have that supervision, that help, that guidance provided for him in school."

CHILDREN AND INDUSTRY

Referring to the problem of educating the child for industry, Mr. Arkless said that he was convinced that schools must make every provision to educate children for their lives in industry.

"The last 100 years had brought fundamental changes in industrial and social life, and it might be well for those who were responsible for fitting the rising generations to take their places in adult life to pause and view the conditions the children in schools would have to face."

Material wealth had increased far beyond what was envisaged only a hundred years ago, and the improved means of communication had drawn nearer the corners of the earth to-day. Yet he questioned whether we were getting the right benefits from either.

"We are so eager to acquire wealth that the acquiring of it has almost come to be regarded as the end in itself, and not merely as the means to an end, where by a man can lead a fuller life," he added. "And so intent are we on amassing material riches that we neglect the richer and more lasting immaterial wealth. Who, nowadays, for instance, has time for the glory of a dawn and the chorus of the birds which precedes it?"

The continuation of the present-day paradox of unemployed money

PARACHUTE JUMPER INJURED

BROKE LEG TO PLEASE CROWD

London. A parachutist who made a perilous descent from 1,600 feet in a strong wind over Reading aerodrome because he did not want to disappoint a waiting crowd, broke his leg above the ankle. "I have never seen a parachutist carried so fast. We all thought he had been killed when he reached the middle of the aerodrome," said a member of Reading Aero club. Mr. Gwynne Johns, 26, the parachutist, is an ironmonger's clerk in a store at Aberystwyth. He had taken a week's holiday to make an attempt on the record drop before the parachute is opened, and was paying for it out of his modest wages. He makes a hobby of parachuting. Earlier in the day he flew from Reading to Salisbury Plain to attempt to jump from 20,000 feet and to drop 18,000 feet before opening his parachute. Over the Plain, however, it was raining heavily and no jump was possible.

Flight-Lieutenant R. E. Milne, chief instructor at Reading, Mr. Johns' pilot, said: "When we got back to Reading, Mr. Gwynne Johns thought he would do a small jump, not an attempt on the record."

"There was a stiff wind and we advised him not to do so. He landed quite well, however, but drifted very fast and was dragged flat on the ground about 200 yards."

"I find jumping a relief from the monotony of my work," Mr. Johns said before his flight. "Falling through the air has always attracted me immensely. I made my first parachute jump about three years ago. I have made 17, my best from a height of 13,000 feet, delaying the opening of the parachute for 45 seconds—a fall of 9,000 feet."—Special.

and unemployed men, Mr. Arkless proceeded, was perhaps a sign of that deterioration which set in when school days were finished.

BUNKUM

"We are told that high finance is a delicate, complicated matter, a mystery to be understood by only a chosen few. That is bunkum. It is a device of the high priests of finance to distract attention from their real activities, a device invented by their forebears, the witch doctors, who, gifted with a certain amount of guile, set up the worship of Mambo Jumbo, and derived therefrom a comfortable living for themselves by preying upon the credulity of their fellow-creatures."

He did not believe that the old days were better than these. He believed that ours was an age of greater fullness, of greater chances for the enjoyment of life, of greater opportunities for good than any age which had gone.

"What I am afraid of is that we, and more particularly the children following us, shall be content to drift, and shall fail to appreciate the fullness, to seize the chances, to take the opportunities."

He said that all too many of the children were directly affected by the unemployment question. They were ill-housed, ill-clothed, and ill-fed, ready victims of illness and disease.

Referring to the question of the school-leaving age which, he said, must be raised, Mr. Arkless proceeded: "Those who put any obstacle in the way of the achievement of this raising of the school-leaving age are waging war upon the children, who cannot fight for themselves."

THE DECCA PORTROLA

A complete all electric radio-gram in the compass of an ordinary acoustic portable. Something that—until the introduction of this truly remarkable little instrument was considered out of the question. But the seemingly impossible has been accomplished and DECCA—the inventors of the first acoustic portable—now introduce the world's first portable radio-gram.

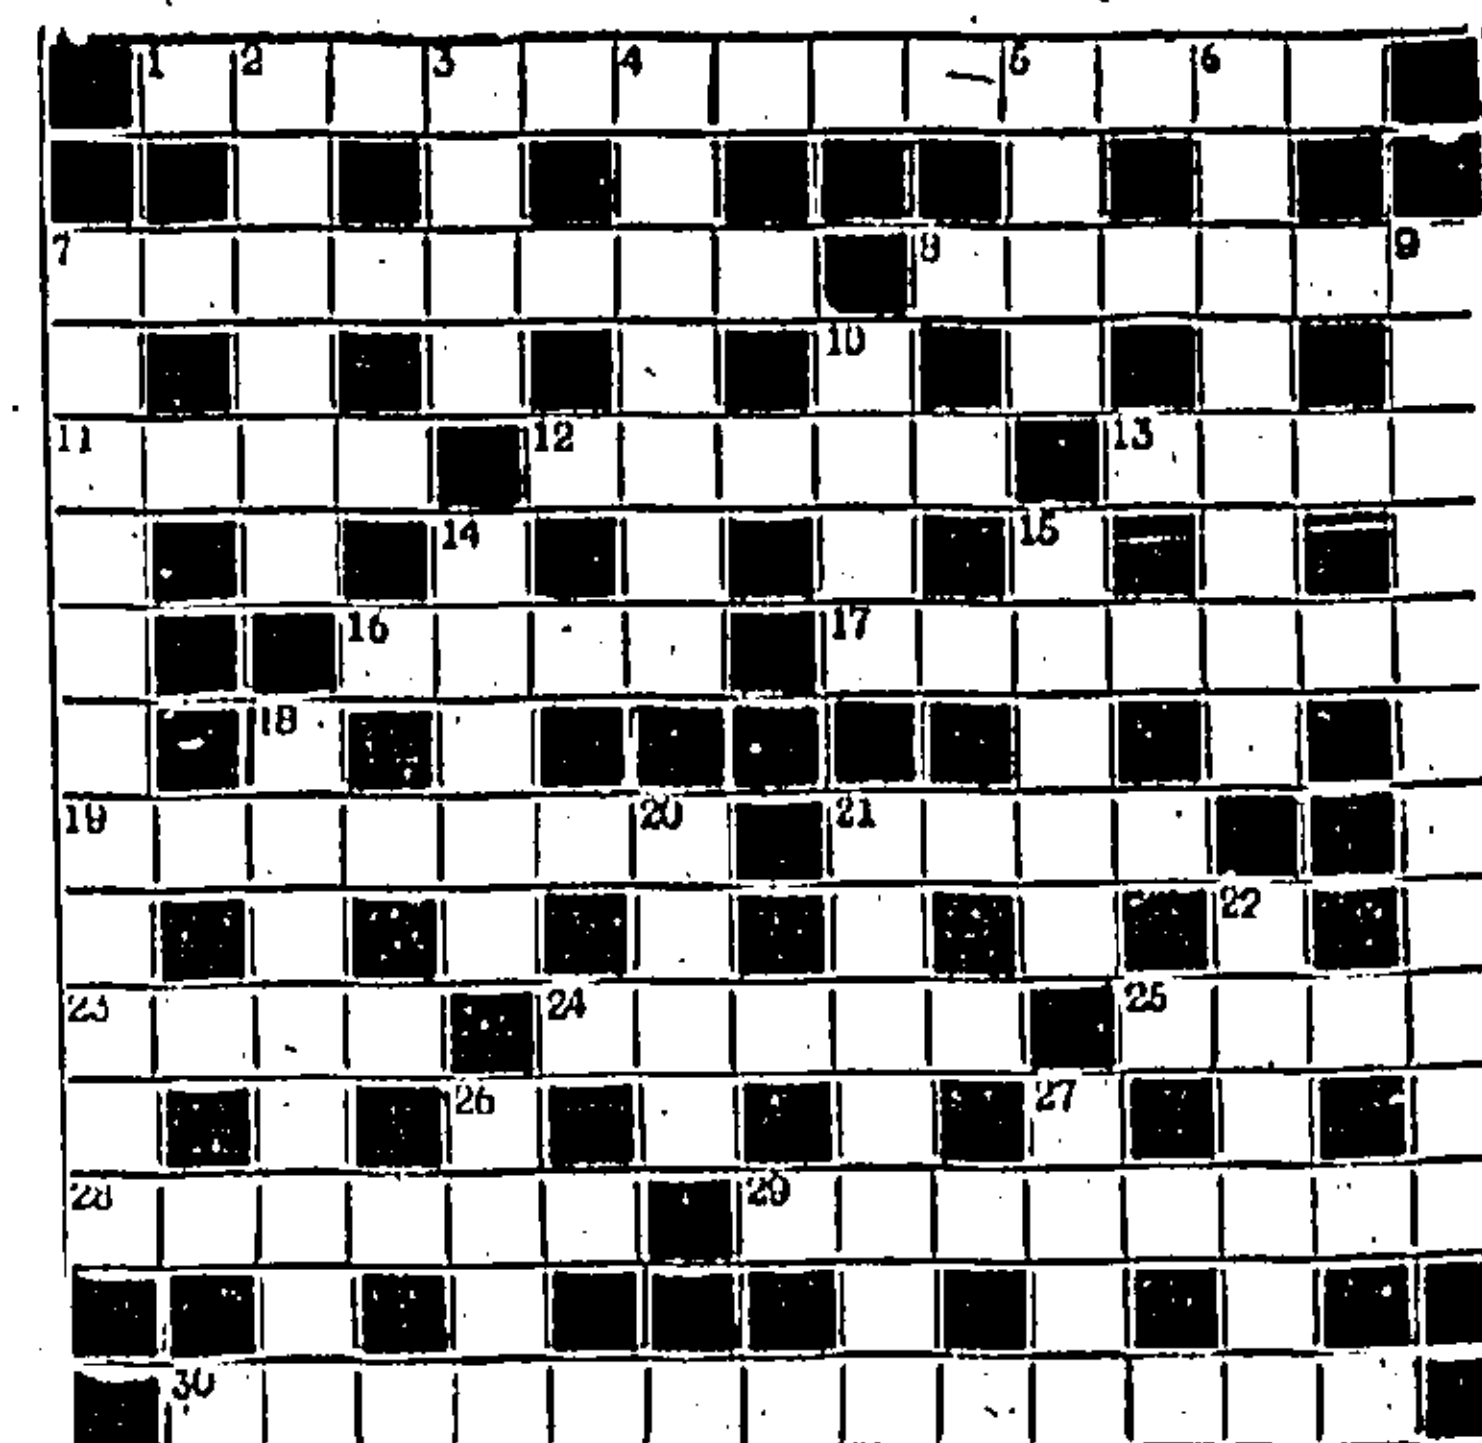

A marvel of ingenuity, the 'Portrola' is distinguished not merely for its portability and novelty, but it really is a highly efficient radio-gram, giving superlative results on radio or records and challenging favourable comparison with most multi-valve receivers.

VALEDICTORY

Fitting tribute to Sir William Peel, as a Governor and as a man, was paid at the farewell gathering held at the University last evening. Those who have enjoyed personal contact with His Excellency during his tenure of office in Hongkong will warmly endorse the high encomiums expressed, conscious that they in no sense over-stated the services which he has rendered to all sections of the community. When His Excellency leaves our shores on Friday, he will not only be giving up the Governorship of the Colony; he will also be ending a Colonial career which has covered a period of nearly forty years—a career spent wholly in the East, and one marked by steady, unrelenting labours on behalf of the Crown. It was fitting that that career should have reached its culmination in a Colonial Governorship, for which His Excellency's talents so eminently fitted him. When he came to Hongkong, Sir William Peel was entering his final tour of service. A less conscientious man, in view of his arduous toil over a period of many years in none too congenial a climate, might have been content to rest on his oars. But, from the start, His Excellency set a fine example of zeal and energy to those under him, and what is more, displayed an amazing adaptability in gaining a quick grasp of the Colony's peculiar problems, which he has maintained ever since. Deaf to the pleas of sectional and special interests, he has nevertheless set himself a course based on the common weal, with a clear appreciation of the Colony's true needs and with an especially sympathetic regard for the claims of the less fortunate members of the community. His Excellency's consideration for the masses has been evident in a whole series of acts, in which the provision of better medical services, infant welfare centres, children's playgrounds, and the initiation of an inquiry into the overcrowding evil are outstanding examples, whilst the same solicitude is shown in the promising start made in the realm of technical education, as also in the creation of a juvenile offenders' court, a court of criminal appeal, and a cheaper and more expeditious process for appeal against magisterial convictions. Of the Colony's major problems, it was truthfully stated at yesterday's gathering that most have either

NOTES OF THE DAY

SEAMEN'S HOURS

Japanese and Chinese delegates to the International Labour Conference in Geneva have recently passed through Hongkong, thus directing attention to this big annual gathering under League of Nations auspices. It is of interest, in this connection, to note that the proposed special Maritime Session of the Conference has now been postponed. Recently, the question was discussed by the Joint Maritime Commission of the I.L.O., which acts as the adviser of the Governing Body in questions affecting seamen. The seamen's organizations had proposed that the discussion of seamen's hours of work should also include that of manning—a matter of considerable interest just now to Britain and other countries. The proposal was accepted by the Commission. "The views of the seamen and the shipowners," it is reported, "were stated frankly but in a very conciliatory spirit," and the Commission reached a practically unanimous decision. It recommends that not later than November, 1935, there should be a special preparatory Conference, tripartite in composition, to consider (a) manning in relation to hours of work on board ship and (b) paid holidays for seamen; thereafter the special Maritime Session of the International Labour Conference should meet in the autumn of 1936. All the questions which have been standing over for several years should come up in 1936 with two new questions added, of manning and of paid holidays. This last, of course, is as it were complementary of this year's regular session of the Conference, for which the question of paid holidays for industrial workers is on the agenda.

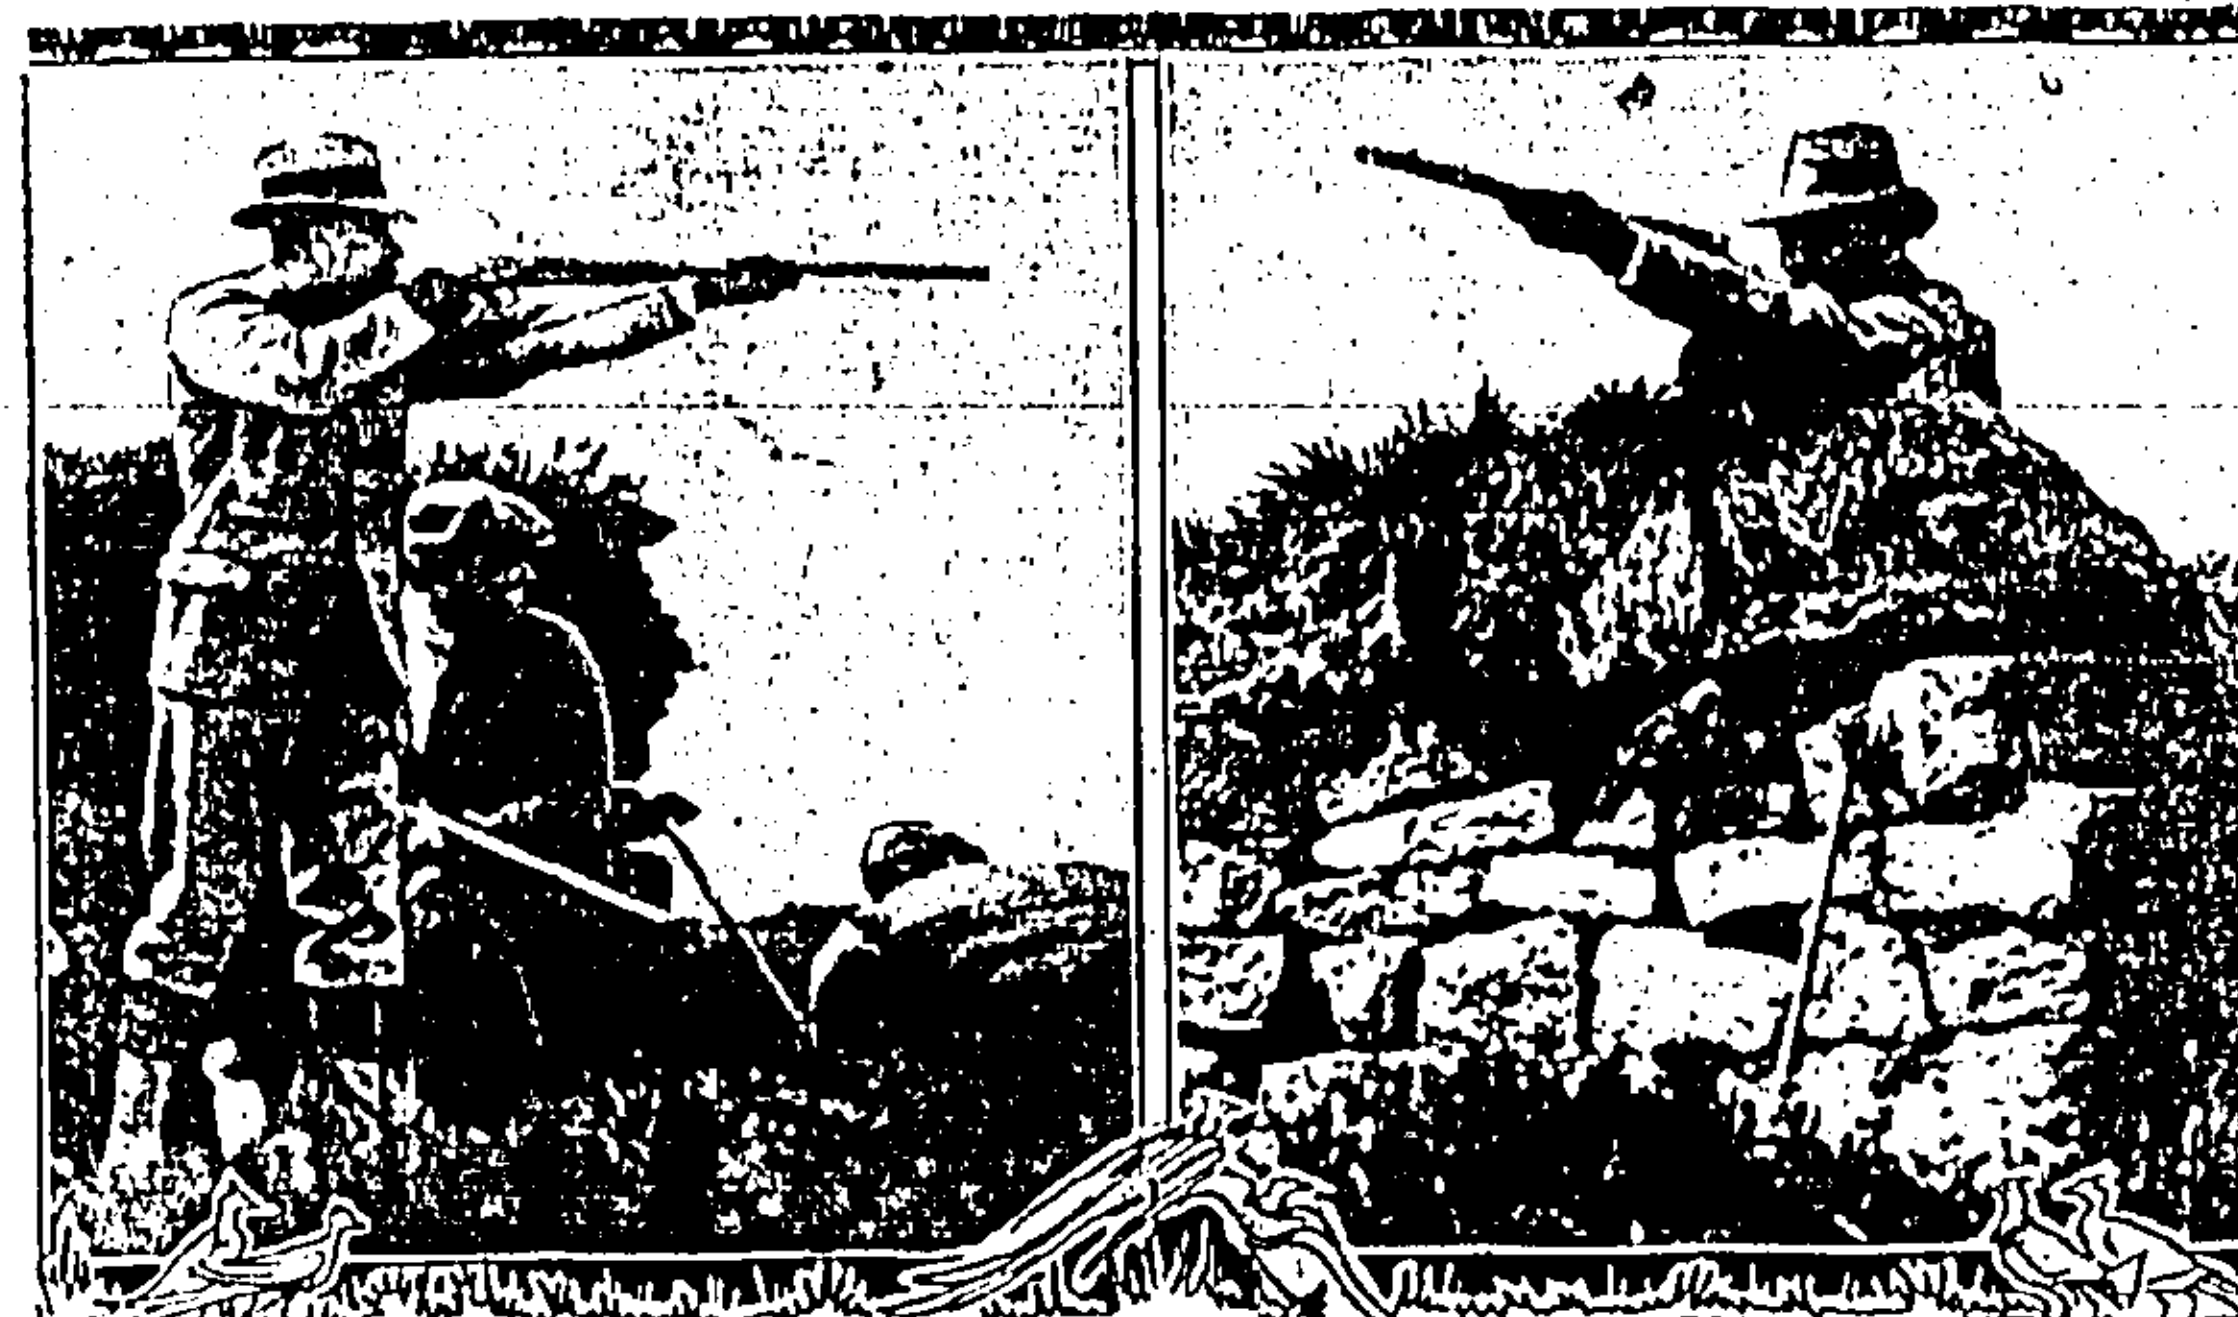

THE WORLD'S WORKLESS

On the 1st of last month the I.L.O. issued its Quarterly Statistics of the World Unemployment Situation. For most countries, there is an improvement as compared with the first months of 1934, but the decline in the number of unemployed is in most cases smaller than that recorded for the last quarter of 1934; the exceptions are Chile, Italy, Norway and Rumania. Compared with the same period last year, there is a marked increase of unemployment in Belgium, France, Holland, Irish Free State and Poland, and a smaller increase in Bulgaria, Spain and Yugoslavia. In general, and owing mainly to seasonal fluctuations, there is more unemployment than in the last quarter of 1934. The statistics are drawn up differently in different countries; the been solved or placed on a fair way towards solution during His Excellency's regime. In this connection, the manner in which Sir William has expedited work on the Shing Mun waterworks scheme stands out as a noteworthy example of his appreciation of primary needs. In all these matters, and many more which could be cited, Sir William has displayed marked ability as an administrator. But, above all else, he has been a very "human" Governor—kindly and considerate in disposition, as the Chinese address so aptly expressed it: a man of compassion, but withal firm in following a course when he believed it to be right; and, in all his deeds, guided by innate common-sense. Whilst upholding and even enhancing the dignity of his office, Sir William Peel has never stood aloof; he has ever sought and readily listened to advice; and, where interests have conflicted, has held the balance fairly and evenly. Towards the Press of the Colony he has been cordial in his contacts, always accessible, and free and frank in the regular exchange of views on matters of concern to the Colony. Hongkong will assuredly be the loser by his departure from our midst. Of Lady Peel, it can be said that not only has she proved an ideal chatelaine at Government House, maintaining its traditions with a quiet dignity and grace, but also that she has been constant, in season and out, in social work of very real value. She leaves behind her, in the new Health Centre at Wanchai and in the Cheero Club, tangible evidence of her services to the community. We join with the Colony in general in wishing His Excellency and Lady Peel many years of health and happiness in the Old Country, there to enjoy the retirement which they have so richly earned.

Our King and Queen on their Silver Jubilee

King George and His Favourite Pastime.

King George's favourite sport is shooting and his indulgence in this pastime from early youth has made him one of the four best shots in England.

Be it grouse shooting at Balmoral, tiger hunting in India or deer hunting in Scotland, the King is regarded as a man of rare proficiency with firearms. He is particularly fast on the "draw," and possesses an iron nerve that never fails him.

Once in India, when a wounded tiger charged an elephant on which the King was mounted, he coolly waited until the ferocious beast made a lunge for the mount and then fired, one shot doing the trick. It was a splendid illustration of coolness.

Our pictures to-day show the King at his favourite sport.

Second only to shooting in the King's favour is yachting; after that he prefers soccer, a game he used to play with some vigour and skill as a midshipman in the Navy.

King George has two indoor hobbies, one of which has earned him fame the world over. That is stamp-collecting. His other collection is of antique watches and clocks. Made up entirely of British Empire issues, the King's stamp collection is said to be worth over £100,000.

One sport that the King has played but in which he never became interested was golf. Only one or two occasions are recorded in which His Majesty chased the elusive pill.

To-morrow: The King recovers from his illness.

figures for some countries are far from expressing the facts. Exact international comparisons are out of the question—but some tendencies can safely be deduced.

BOLD LEAD WANTED

At a rough estimate, the I.L.O. puts the total of unemployed throughout the world (exclusive of India and China and other countries, where the problem is hardly defined in the Western sense) at 25 millions. About one-quarter of these—between 6 and 7 millions—are young persons under 25 years of age. The figures are startling and emphasise the seriousness of the problem, which comes before the International Labour Conference this summer. Whether any country will take the lead at the Conference and propose bold measures, remains to be seen; the proposals of the Office, put up as a basis of discussion, are in the nature of things palliatives rather than cures—though even as palliatives they are probably too sweeping for a good many of the Governments.

TO-DAY'S MOTORING HINT

CAUSES OF OVERHEATING

Frequent causes of overheating are concerned with the oil, ignition, carburation, valves, brakes and air leaks. If there is a shortage of oil in the engine the increased friction raises the engine temperature. If the spark is retarded unduly, according to the needs of the moment, it has the same effect; this, by the way, may be due to a stuck automatic governor or hand control. A weak mixture, whether caused by incorrect setting of the carburettor or a partially choked fuel system, burns very slowly and the heat generated has not the same chance of being dissipated. If a valve is stuck it means that the firing mixture is weakened and this has the same effect as the last mentioned. If the brakes are badly adjusted and rub continually against the drum the engine load is increased; this can be determined by the heat of the drums. Lastly, if there are air leaks in the induction system a weaker mixture results.

DEATH ON SHIP

CHINESE DIES ON WAY TO JUBILEE CELEBRATIONS

For Chan Yuk-ying the Silver Jubilee celebrations in Hongkong did not prove an occasion for rejoicing. Yesterday, as she sobbed in the witness box of the Kowloon Court, she explained how her husband, Mo Chi-ping, visiting the Colony from Canton for the Jubilee celebrations, had died aboard the steamer Taishan.

A fracas had occurred just as the vessel was arriving in Hongkong and was presumably caused through the struggles by the huge crowd aboard to get ready for coming ashore. During the disturbance, Mo Chi-ping collapsed and died before he could be taken to hospital.

The jury at the coroner's inquest yesterday returned a verdict of death by misadventure, and added that Mo Chi-ping had died as a result of a clot of blood which had travelled from a tumour in his leg to his heart. They found no evidence to show that death was caused by a fight which took place on board the Taishan.

It had been alleged at an earlier hearing that deceased was assaulted. Mr. T. Murphy, Assistant Director of Criminal Investigation, appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones, as coroner, at the Kowloon Magistracy, on behalf of the police, while Mr. M. T. Lo kept a watching brief on behalf of Tong Yiu, Chu Shing and several other folks who had been on board the Taishan at the time of the fight. Mr. C. Y. Kwan kept a watching brief on behalf of Ho Man-chung.

Widow's Evidence

At the commencement of yesterday's hearing, Ho Man-chung gave evidence that on May 4 he had been hawking fruit on the Taishan when his employer, Tong Yin, had told him to visit the pursuer. He denied having seen any fight.

Lok Sing-cheung, another hawker, said that he knew nothing of the fight until told to visit the Captain. Two other hawkers, Tong Sum and Chan Tak, also denied having seen the fight.

The widow, Chan Yuk-ying, brought down from Canton after her husband's death, gave evidence of having identified his body at the Morgue. She knew that he had a swelling in the leg (completely recovered before he left Canton) which had been caused by a bullet wound received on the battlefield over seven years ago.

After taking all the evidence, Mr. Wynne-Jones asked if any Chinese, who had been listening to the case and could give reliable evidence, would enter the witness box.

As no one offered to give evidence, Mr. Wynne-Jones summed up the case for the jury who, after a short retirement, returned the verdict of death by misadventure. The jury comprised Messrs. H. A. de Figueiredo (foreman), Ho Tai-yung, and Lo Fun-wai.

"I kept refusing him dates, just to make him think I was popular, so he quit calling up."

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

When Katharine Hepburn completed her work on "The Little Minister" coming to the King's Theatre on Saturday, she had the pleasure of feeling that she had provided a treat for the public that so needs a touch of romance, a bit of laughter, and a little to stir its emotions. "The Little Minister" was before the camera at the RKO-Radio studio for two months, with an additional month devoted to editing and scoring. Miss Hepburn, in an entirely new characterisation, is said to provide her most delightful performance in the famous role of Babette called Miss Hepburn "the ideal selection" for this part. "The Little Minister" is one of the great love stories of the ages, and is already dear to the hearts of millions. The screen play is by Jane Mullan, Sarah Y. Mason, and Victor Heer. The latter two responsible for the charming treatment of "Little Women." John Deal in the title role, and Alan Hale as Rob Dow, the unruly village toper whose disturbing nature has much to do with the events of the plot, have featured roles. Other line character parts are taken by Beryl Mercer, Andy Clyde, Donald Crisp, Elly Mayson, Lumsden Hare, Little Billy Watson, Mary Gordon, Reinald Denny, Frank Conroy, Harry Beresford and Barlowe Borland.

"The Captain Hates the Sea" Ship A-Hoy! Not since Noah's ark have there been so many strange creatures aboard one ship! Hilarity in every hatch! Fun in every funnel! A laugh in every porthole! "The Captain Hates the Sea," opening Thursday, Friday and Saturday is an introductory broadcast by the Three Radio Rogues, the famous imitators of the stars of the air. The three rogues, Jim Hollywood, Eddie Bartlett and Henry Taylor, have so thoroughly perfected the art of imitating the human voice that it is practically impossible for the listener to tell whether he is hearing an imitation of the star or to the star himself. In "Twenty Million Sweethearts" these three imitate, Ben Bernie, Russ Columbo, singing Sam, Morton Downey, Arthur Tracy, the Street Singer, Rudy Vallee, Amos and Andy, Joe Penner, Kate Smith and Bing Crosby. This is but one of the many novel features in the picture which combines comedy drama and romance with the catchiest musical hits of the year.

"20 Million Sweethearts" One of the unique features of "Twenty Million Sweethearts," the First National radio romance which comes to the Oriental Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday is an introductory broadcast by the Three Radio Rogues, the famous imitators of the stars of the air. The three rogues, Jim Hollywood, Eddie Bartlett and Henry Taylor, have so thoroughly perfected the art of imitating the human voice that it is practically impossible for the listener to tell whether he is hearing an imitation of the star or to the star himself. This is but one of the many novel features in the picture which combines comedy drama and romance with the catchiest musical hits of the year.

"The Old-Fashioned Way" Baby Leroy, Hollywood's youngest motion picture star, is teamed again with the handsome rival and feudist, W. C. Fields, Paramount's comedian in the latter's new picture, "The Old-Fashioned Way," now at the Star Theatre. Originally teamed up in Paramount's "Tillie and Gus," this pair works together for the second time in "The Old-Fashioned Way." The film presents Fields as the manager and leading man of a hungry troupe of stock players, such as used to tour the provinces in the Gay 90's. One of the features of the film is a condensed version of that old-fashioned melodrama "The Drunkard, or The Fallen Saved," which uses the entire company currently producing the play on the Los Angeles stage.

"Devil Dogs of the Air" The Cosmopolitan production, "Devil Dogs of the Air," released by Warner Bros. opens at the Alhambra Theatre on Saturday. The picture deals with the romantic and daredevil exploits of members of the aviation corps of the U. S. Marines and is said to be a smashing follow-up of "Here Comes the Navy." The same intrepid trio head the cast of this new service picture. James Cagney, Pat O'Brien and Frank McHugh. Margaret Lindsay has the leading feminine role. In the supporting cast are Helen Lowell, John Arledge, Robert Barrat, Russell Hicks, William David, and Ward Bond. Lloyd Bacon directed the picture from the screen play by Malcolm Stuart Boylan and Earl Baldwin, based on the story by John Monk Saunders.

"Whirlpool" Columbia's Jack Holt starring vehicle now showing at the Queen's Theatre will conclude its run to-day. The fast-moving picture has had an unusually successful engagement and audiences have been highly pleased with the story and cast which includes Jean Arthur, Donald Cook, Lila Lee, Rita La Roy and Allen Jenkins. Directed by Roy William Neill from the story by Howard Emmet Rogers, the screen version of "Whirlpool," prepared by Dorothy Howell and Ethel Hill, tells the tale of a man's sacrifice for his family—a wife and a daughter he hasn't seen for twenty years.

"Red Morning" Sail the briny deep seas of the world to the distant lands of New Guinea and the Fiji Islands, and see love, adventure, excitement and action in this remote frontiers of civilization! And you can enjoy the voyage in a seat at the King's Theatre and see these thrilling events in "Red Morning," a gripping melodrama with a group of Hollywood favourites headed by Steffi Duna and Regis Toomey, opening the story against the colorful South Seas background. The cast's work is paced in quality and

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

MARKET UPWARD YESTERDAY

New York, May 14. The following report on the New York Stock market has been received through Messrs. Swann, Culbertson & Fritz:

The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market—Stocks to-day were higher, led by oil issues as the result of favourable reports by the industry. The advance in the price of silver, due to the fact that Secretary Morgenthau had indicated that the Administration's policy will not be changed, also had a favourable influence. Stocks on the Curb Exchange were irregular. Utility shares were weak. Bonds were irregular, with Government issues displaying an easier tendency.

S. C. & P. New York cable: Prices were unchanged as the market dries up on selling. General news was featureless. Cotton: The market was too near the loan price to attract new volume or buying and business was mostly trade switching. It is reported that the Cotton Pool made some large sales for export. The market was steady, with no possibility of Congress will override the Presidential vote regarding the Patman Bill and on the Government's intention to take delivery of cotton if necessary. Wheat: Contract deliveries totalled 84,000 bushels today, on the belief that Winter Estimates will be raised. The consensus of opinion is bearish, but technical rallies are probable. Corn: Deliveries to-day totalled 10,000 bushels, indicating the strength of near crop. Rubber: This market was firm with the Trade good buyers. Off-grades were scarce. A bullish consumption report is expected to-morrow. Sentiment has improved.

INTERNATIONAL HOCKEY

ENGLISH ELEVEN WINS DANES BEATEN BY 11-1

(By C. S. W. Marcon)

They came, they saw, they were conquered. Defeated 11-1 by a Hockey Association team which included seven of this year's English XI, the Danes will now be able to gauge our full strength on the hockey field. They will not, one hopes, return home in any way depressed. They certainly showed no signs of depression on the field, and though outplayed in every department, kept their heads, and displayed an excellent spirit.

They certainly deserved their goal (scored by Frahm, after a well-conceived movement), and this effort was applauded to the full by the crowd, who surrounded a pitch that, considering the heavy morning rain, played remarkably well.

The failings displayed by the Danes were: slowness with the ball; ill-timedness in giving passes; too large a gap between the halves and the forwards; faulty tactics by the full-backs, who did not cover correctly, or mark sufficiently closely; indifferent marking by the halves. On the credit side I would place: intelligent interception; clever tackling and very clean hand-stops by M. Venge, left-back; praiseworthy efforts by Frahm, centre-forward, who worked so hard to keep the line together; some particularly clever saves by Gray in the second half—one save of a flick shot by Whitlock was brilliant.

NON-INTERNATIONALS

The four non-internationalists in the I.L.A. XI justified their inclusion, though I have seen Coxeter play better. The man whose play was delightful and whose future must contain one or more caps was McLean (right half). After each pass he makes to his forwards, he breaks at once into a run, anticipating the attack about to be made. He disguises the direction of his passes, and invariably finds his man. When he broke away with the ball from a corner against the H.A., and with no one in support, was checked only on the edge of the Danish circle, one admired his initiative.

Stuart dealt out cross-passes well, and when stopping passes on his reverse side used his stick brilliantly. Dickinson worked hard and unselfishly. The forward line revelled in the open spaces that loomed before them. Whitlock is an ideal pivot. Milford was brilliant in his dribbling, but his passes inwards are disproportionate in number to those given outwards. Ogilvy and Slade did more or less as

CRICKET TOURISTS IN FORM

SOUTH AFRICANS WIN AGAIN

SURREY BEATEN AT OVAL

London, May 14. Two more of the South African cricketers now on tour in England distinguished themselves in the match against Surrey at the Oval where the English county were defeated by 190 runs.

I. J. Siedle, the sound and experienced batsman from Natal, scored 104 runs and A. D. Nourse, the son of "Dave" Nourse who is so well known to the older generation of cricketers in England, contributed 108 runs. Siedle and Nourse were engaged in an unbroken third wicket partnership.

The tourists scored 367 runs in their first innings but after dismissing Surrey for 266 they made merry at the expense of the Oval bowlers. Only two wickets had fallen when Siedle and Nourse had their innings interrupted by the declaration with 280 runs on the board. Surrey again fell short of the South Africans' total, losing their last wicket for 191.

The heaviest scoring fixture of the series was that played at Portsmouth between Hampshire and Kent which was won by the visitors by seven wickets. Hampshire ran up the huge total of 424 runs, of which W. G. Lowndes contributed 118 while Kent replied with a score of 479, Fagg being top scorer with 122.

A second innings collapse by Hampshire who scored 154 runs enabled the match to be finished when Kent made 100 for three wickets.

SET-BACK FOR YORKSHIRE

Gloucestershire and Nottinghamshire were engaged in a featureless match at Nottingham where the visitors took the points for a lead on first innings. Notts scored 280 and 270 while Gloucestershire made 288 and 13 without loss. Bowlers held the upper hand in the fixture between Northants and Somerset at Taunton where the visitors won by 48 runs. In their first innings Northants scored 171 and Somerset 131 before being dismissed. Wellard captured five of the wickets for 64 runs in the second innings. Somerset were sent back for 285 and Kent for 38 and 76. Timms being the only batsman to score 121 before being dismissed. Wellard captured five of the wickets for 64 runs in the second innings. Somerset were sent back for 285 and Kent for 38 and 76. Timms being the only batsman to score 121 before being dismissed.

Once again Yorkshire have made an indifferent start in their championship matches and, when playing against Derbyshire at Chesterfield, they were beaten on first innings. Derbyshire hit up 382 and dismissed Yorkshire for 328. Sutcliffe scoring 91. The second innings declaration (Continued on Page 9.)

they pleased.

Milford, dribbling in and out, reached the goal line and flicked back to Whitlock, who opened the scoring. Whitlock to Dickinson, who ran and shot well, goal No. 2. Milford to Whitlock at the twenty-five; a long dribble by the latter, and long went No. 3. Again Whitlock scored, though he appeared to those of us who were opposite the vital spot to be offside when the pass to him was made. Then Milford made the total-five with a high flick, and half-time arrived.

Afterwards, at a corner, the Danes appeared loth to charge, and Milford scored. Then came an excellent goal by Frahm for Denmark. Milford scored twice, the second time following Slade's shot. Whitlock, after a brilliant dribble, scored No. 9. Then Milford again, from Dickinson's pass across the goalmouth. Whitlock brought up his tally of goals to equal Milford's (5), following a corner taken by Slade. Gray was bombarded at times and saved brilliantly.

"A" DIVISION MATCHES

CHINESE R.C. TRIUMPH

The Chinese Recreation Club are again favoured to win the "A" Division of the lawn tennis league and judging by their performances yesterday when the championship fixtures were commenced they have the best team among all the competitors.

The senior 814, consisting of several young promising players, had no difficulty in beating the Club de Recreio while the junior side held the strong Indian R.C. combination to a division of the spoils. The Colony Doubles champions, S. A. and H. D. Rumjahn, were in partnership and won all their sets but the other L.R.C. pairs could only secure one and a half sets between them.

The full scores of the opening day's play follow:

RECREIO "A" v. C.R.C. "A"

Visiting the Club de Recreio, the Chinese R.C. "A" won by seven sets to two. Scores:

A. V. Gonano and C. A. Barretto (Recreio) lost to Ho Ka-lau and W. C. Hung 2-6, beat Lee Wai-long and Luk Ding-cheung 6-4; lost to Y. W. Lee and Lu Tak-cheuk 4-6.

P. J. Remedios and H. A. Barros (Recreio) lost to Ho and Hung 5-7; lost to Lee and Luk 4-6; lost to Lee and Lu 2-6.

A. V. Remedios and J. Goncalves (Recreio) lost to Ho and Hung 1-6; beat Lee and Luk 6-2; lost to Lee and Lu 4-6.

SCHAEFFER SCORES KNOCK OUT

ANOTHER VERDICT FOR CANADIAN

IN SEARCH OF TITLE

Paul Schaeffer, the hard-hitting Canadian water-weight, will shortly be qualified to fight for the British championship. Already he has knocked out the present holder of the title, Pat Butler, of Leicester; Billy Bird, of Chelsea; and George Bunter, one of the Northern hopes. Last month, at the Ring, he accounted for another lad from Lancashire in Tommy Marren, of Burnley.

Marren tried long-range methods in vain against the Canadian, whose forcible punches put him down twice in the fourth round, and in the following round Schaeffer's left hook caused him to take the full count.

GREAT SHOTS IN GOLF DESCRIBED

GREATEST OF THE GREAT

RECENT TOURNEY FEAT

SARAZEN'S DEUCE STROKE

Speaking of Great Golf, Gene Sarazen's double eagle two scored on the 485-yard 15th hole during the recent Bobby Jones Masters' Tournament at Augusta, Ga., is the greatest of the great.

Holes in one have been made tournament competition by Paul Runyan, Leo Diegel, Ross Somerville, and others, but none can compare with this, the outstanding shot in the history of golf.

Granted that Gene is a strong finisher, as was proved at Fresh Meadows in 1932, when he scored 69 in the final round to snatch the National Open crown away from the waiting hands of Phil Perkins, no one conceded him a chance of catching Craig Wood as he mounted the 15th tee.

Wood finished with 282, and Gene was three strokes behind. This would necessitate shaving a like number of strokes from par, finishing in 13 strokes against perfect figures of 5-3-4-4; even then Sarazen would only tie Wood.

BEATEN AFTER EARLY ADVANTAGE

J. FRASER PLAYS BRILLIANTLY FOR WINNERS

ELEVEN SHOTS SCORED ON THREE HEADS DECIDE ISSUE

(By "Sagax")

As was foreshadowed during the week, the best game thus far in the local lawn bowls championship was that played on the Club de Recreio green yesterday afternoon when J. Fraser and A. Hyde Lay of the Kowloon Cricket Club met and defeated B. W. Bradbury and U. M. Omar of the Craigengower Cricket Club by 28 shots to 19 in the Pairs event. A sudden and complete change during the middle of the game turned what at one time appeared to be inevitable defeat for the Kowloon players into a glorious victory.

The metamorphosis came on the eleventh head after the Craigengower pair had been leading by eleven shots to six on the eighth. Omar, who had been playing a brilliant game faded away and his reversal of form inspired Hyde Lay to a much higher standard than he had been playing earlier in the match. Although he never reached the brilliance of his partner, Jack Fraser, the former Colony champion became much steadier and more than held his own against Omar while Fraser continued to play the best bowls of the day.

Bradbury was never in his best form and was completely out-played by his opponent throughout the match. Fraser was the outstanding player of the afternoon and rarely sent down an absolutely useless bowl although there were times when he was erratic. His consistency imposed an arduous task on Omar who proved equal to the occasion only during the first half of the game. Time and again the Craigengower skip had saved counters or had drawn shots but after a bad haul the eleventh head Omar lost his touch and except for a three on the fourteenth the Hongkong pair were never a match for their opponents.

HYDE LAY IMPROVES

Hyde Lay failed to follow up the useful work which his partner was putting in during the early stages but he was playing a sound game later and invariably sent down counters to increase the score.

Bradbury played his best head on the eighth when he sent down three counters to which Omar added a fourth to give the Craigengower representatives the lead by eleven shots to six after the Kowloon C.C. players had been ahead by 6-2 and then 4-2.

Two successive singles to Fraser and Hyde Lay were conceded on the next heads and then Omar had his bad lapse. Up to then it was he who was playing the best bowls of the day but a count of five was given away by the Craigengower pair.

Hyde Lay, with his first wood, rested Fraser's counter but Omar returned the compliment and then Hyde Lay knocked in the second shot. Omar gave away another while Hyde Lay followed up with two more counters for a score of five.

On the twelfth head Hyde Lay drew the first shot and then Omar gave away two, the score now being (Continued on Page 9.)

Singles Start To-day

LOCAL BOWLS TOURNEY

The first round of the Pairs bowls Championship has now been concluded with the exception of the fixture postponed on account of the indisposition of one of the players, and an unfinished match which is to be continued this afternoon.

An immediate start will be made with the first round of the Singles Championship and to-day will see nine matches down for decision. In one or two instances club matches clash but except for this friendly rivalry there are no games of outstanding interest this afternoon.

Neither G. C. Moss nor G. Perkins is able to play this afternoon and their match which was fixed for the Takoo R. C. green has been postponed until next week.

The attraction of the first round will be the match to-morrow afternoon between A. M. Holland and A. W. Grimmit, the holder of the title.

The following are the matches which have been fixed for this afternoon:

R. P. Phillips (Club de Recreio Green)	v.	G. B. F. Thompson
A. Macfarlane (Police R. C. Green)	v.	A. F. Paul

TWO LONG DRAWN OUT SETS PLAYED

14-12 AND 17-15

London, May 14. What must constitute a record for duration tennis was the match which was played at Eastbourne in the Davis Cup Competition between Australia and New Zealand.

Jack Crawford, the Australian, and A. H. Stedman were engaged in a match which went to 28 games in the first set and 32 in the second.

Australian, it will be recalled, won the tie in the first three matches played and to-day Crawford and Stedman were engaged in one of the remaining two singles.

Crawford, the Wimbledon champion of two years ago, was fully extended by his opponent and was forced to 26 games before winning the first set at 14-12. In the second set an even more strenuous fight was made by the New Zealander who played doggedly until he was forced to concede the set at 17-15.

The third set opened with prospects of another duel but rain thought fit to interfere with the marathon and at 4-3 in favour of Crawford the match had to be abandoned.

The Australians are travelling to Paris to-morrow and will not, therefore, complete the tie against New Zealand.—Reuter.

UNUSUAL PENALTY INCIDENT

REFEREE MAKES DISCOVERY

BALL OUT OF PLAY

There was an unusual incident some 15 minutes from the end of the football match between Fulham and Manchester United at Craven Cottage on April 20 when the hosts, leading 3-1 on their merits, were defending stubbornly to prevent Manchester from sharing the honours.

Bamford, who had always been a source of danger suddenly broke through at that critical period to reach within a few yards of the Fulham goal-line. He was then heavily charged off the ball by Gibbons.

Amid considerable surprise the referee, Mr. G. W. Jones, instantly signalled for a penalty kick, only to discover that the ball had previously been out of play for several moments!

SELFRIDGE'S

Bishop Auckland's Sixth
Amateur CupWIMBLEDON BAULKED BY A STUBBORN DEFENCE

(By Norman Ackland)

London, April 22.

Bishop Auckland lived up to their splendid traditions in the F.A. Amateur Cup competition when on Saturday at Stamford Bridge they realised their ambitions to be the first team to win the trophy six times. They achieved this feat by beating Wimbledon by 2 goals to 1.

If the history of the amateur game is ever written this report will describe a chapter to itself. It was one of the greatest finals of all time. Thrills we expect in a match of this sort, but seldom have I seen such a high standard of football maintained in a game played at such a terrific pace. Wimbledon were presented with a gift goal in the first few minutes, and could not again pierce the resolute Bishop Auckland defence, and yet it could not be said that they deserved to lose.

When the Northerners took the lead early in the second half their half-backs fell back on defence, and the backs were content to kick out indiscriminately. In the circumstances their win was a decidedly lucky one, but if they had taken the other view—that attack is the best defence—nevertheless, the backs would never have been subjected to such heavy pressure as they were in the last half-hour. As it was, the abilities of such clever forwards as Bryan, Wilson, and Stephenson were practically lost to them in the second half.

For the winners the defence must have existed between Hopps, the goalkeeper, and the backs was little short of uncanny. In the face of such heavy pressure it was only natural that Hopps should sometimes be caught out of position, and on these occasions either Milton or the soundest defender on the field, or Scott would pop up like a jack-in-the-box and the ball, instead of being in the net, would be safely cleared, although only by the adoption of the questionable tactics of kicking out, of which the crowd strongly and rightly disapproved. Strangely enough, however, much more difficult to hold than he was at Middlesbrough, but Shield, the left-half, actually the most promising player of the side, was too strong and too clever for the youthful Leslie Smith.

One could not but sympathise with Dowden for being foiled in his magnificent attempt to crown his great career by leading his club's attack to victory. Watching his brilliant and inspired attempts to break through the strongest defence in the amateur game, I found it hard to realise that this great centre-forward had actually emerged from retirement to help his club out of a difficulty some months ago.

A FATAL MISTAKE

There were 35,000 spectators (receipts £2,181)—the second biggest crowd for a final—and but for a heavy downpour of rain before the start, I think the record (37,000 at Highbury, when Hibernia beat Leyton in 1929) would have been beaten. Three minutes from the start Dowden, chased a centre, and was allowed to run in and score while the Bishop Auckland defenders were appealing for offside—a foolish action on their part, because Dr. Barton was in a perfect position to see everything. They might have given away another goal through making a similar appeal later on, but this time Turner's shot was saved by Hopps.

For the first half-hour the whole Wimbledon team played like men possessed. Barnes, Dowden, and Zenithon testing Hopps with shots from all angles. By one extraordinary freak of chance one shot from Zenithon that appeared certain to go into the net struck the upright and rebounded into play. Dowden, too, was unfortunate not to score when a great shot from him hit the bar. The cat's paw Northern team waited until Wimbledon had played themselves out, and then launched one of those raids that have served them so well in previous rounds. After some clever constructive play by Shield, the ball went to Birbeck. His shot hit the bar, rolled to the feet of Hogg, and the outside-left sent across a centre. Bryan took this and shot, but the ball rebounded off Birkwell to Wilson, who shot hard into the net.

DOWDEN'S GREAT EFFORT

Bishop Auckland maintained their attack, and were awarded a free-kick, which was splendidly taken by Shield. The ball went to Bryan, who, with only Irish to beat, shot wide. Then Dowden made his most spectacular effort of the match. He took the ball down in a close and clever dribble and shot at close range. The ball cannoned off Hopps, and when Dowden headed it back again, it was gathered by the Bishop Auckland goalkeeper.

Three minutes after the interval, Bryan snatched up a pass from Stephenson, and crashed the ball through a crowd of players into the net to give Bishop Auckland a lead which they certainly did not deserve in the run of the play. The rest of the match was simply one prolonged struggle between Wimbledon's forwards and the Bishop Auckland backs and goalkeeper. Twice Hopps was hurt in making lion-hearted saves, Milton and Scott made some miraculous clearances, three times the ball crashed against the bar, but still the great Bishop Auckland defence held out.

Dowden's culminating disappointment came when he drew the opposing backs out of position, and sent the ball across to Smith. He stood unmarked waiting for the return pass, but Smith lost his head and tried to go through on his own. Dowden lifted his hands despairingly when he saw the best chance of the match lost.

WOMEN'S HOCKEY
FIXTUREEnglish Side Beat
Continental

(By Marjorie Pollard)

Amsterdam.

Weather was perfect at the Kennemer Lyceum, Bloemendaal, for the first women's hockey match between England and Holland, but the composition-covered ball was not easy to control.

England deserved their 5-0 victory if only for the superior speed which they showed in making their passes. The Dutch team seemed to rely solely on head hitting.

Although the game was much slower than that against Germany, it was always exciting, and the contrast in methods was interesting to watch. By half-time England were leading by three goals to nil. I scored the first goal, and Miss Redman the other two. Our method of attack was changed, as there seemed to be a difference of interpretation of the off-side rule. At one time it appeared that we should never score.

After the interval Holland certainly had more of the game, and Miss Arnold, in the English goal, had quite a lot to do, and she certainly did it well. But the Dutch defence was kept very busy, and although the circle was often full of defending players, we were able to get in many shots, two of which scored goals. These were hit by Mrs. Pilley and Miss Redman.

The game was never really scientific, and England could not overcome the hard-hitting Dutch defence. Miss Rutlin Compton and Miss Daniels played resolutely and with great determination. The half-backs were best in defence, and the forwards found the English defence too good altogether. Miss Holland, the left wing, was very fast, and would get a place in an English Territorial side. The English team seemed a bit tired at times, but several players did well. Miss Redman scored three fine goals. Miss Carlsbach, Miss Maddox, and Miss Blackland made a grand half-back line, and they held the Dutch forwards without much difficulty.

As usual Miss Knott played magnificently, and some of her tackles were really brilliant.

Although we won by five clear goals, each one had to be worked for, and Dutch hockey, although only about 12 years old—is improving rapidly.

Washbrook, a young batsman who had not had a great deal of experience, knocked up the first double century of the season when he scored 228 for Lancashire against Oxford University at Oxford where the county champions won by an innings and 30 runs, after totalling 498 for seven wickets. Oxford scored 230 (Mitchell-Innes 102) and then following on, 229.—Reuter.

COMPETITION

16-11 in favour of the Kowloon C. C. pair. Omar recovered his accuracy on the thirteenth head and trailed the jack to lay two shots but Hyde Lay drew two successive shots and knocked in a third to give his side eleven in the last three heads.

A TELLING CHANGE

The change demoralised the Craigenower pair but they were not to be beaten so easily and returned with a three on the next head. Fraser and Hyde Lay took the score to 23-16 on the 18th head by singles and a two and on the 19th head put the issue beyond doubt with a four.

On this head Hyde Lay, with his second shot, drew to the jack and lay one with a measure for the second but Omar, in attempting to break up the head, merely took out the Craigenower wood to give the K. C. C. pair an undisputed two. Hyde Lay drew a third and again Omar drove but without success. When Hyde Lay sent down a fourth counter Omar was given further instructions to drive but he missed by a wide margin.

The score on the 20th head was 28-16 in favour of Fraser and Hyde Lay who conceded a four on the final head to win by 28-19.

SERIAL STORY—

The DARK BLOND

by CARLETON KENDRAKE

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

MILICENT GRAVES, secretary to GEORGE DRUMMOND, had her employer in his office dead. Millicent had a notebook in which Drummond had begun to dictate a confession.

In panic she rushes away, registers at a hotel under an assumed name.

JALVIS HAP, a stranger, offers to help her. He sends her to a beauty parlour where she is transformed into a blond, then takes her home and introduces her to his secretary, Miss Grace.

Next morning a detective summons Millicent. She throws the key to Robert Caise's car into the fountain pool and a moment later sees Mrs. Hap waiting her.

CHAPTER XVII

The steps Millicent had heard in the corridor went on, past her door. Millicent clung to the window ledge.

Mrs. Hap stared up at her, the diamond-hard eyes seeming to pierce through the girl's very soul. "Good morning," she said. "I presume you've heard the tragic news."

Millicent nodded. For the life of her, words would not come. Had Mrs. Hap seen her toss that key container into the pool?

"It's so dreadful," Mrs. Hap said. "Harry was an excellent chauffeur. I was really very much attached to him, although he worked mostly for my husband. Are you dressed?"

"I'm dressing," Millicent said.

"I thought that you would be fatigued, so I told them not to call you for breakfast, but the officers are here now, making an investigation. They think some hold-up man must have been living in wait for Harry when he entered his room. It's really most tragic. But get your clothes on, my dear, and have some breakfast. Then I want to talk with you."

Millicent nodded, slid back from the window and dropped into a chair.

There was something about Mrs. Hap and her son, Robert, that filled Millicent with apprehension. They seemed so cold-blooded, so utterly merciless, and they seemed to crop up so unexpectedly. She could almost have sworn there was no one in sight when she started to toss that key container into the pool. Yet, Mrs. Hap must have been standing there all the time.

Millicent faced herself in the mirror, stared appraisingly at her reflection, then decided that she was going to keep her colours flying bravely to the civil. She slipped out of her clothes, stepped into a bathrobe, fastened it with needle-like springs of cold water clinging the healthy young skin of her shapely body. She rubbed herself into a glow with a rough towel and suddenly felt infinitely better.

She dressed hastily, descended the stairs and found Mrs. Eaton waiting for her at the table.

"Good morning," Mrs. Eaton said in her colourless voice. "I presume you will have but little appetite this morning. You've heard what's happened. The officers are back in the room now, taking photographs and measurements. They'll remove the body presently."

"Yes," Millicent said. "I heard what happened. It's horrible. But I have an appetite just the same. After all, you know, I only knew him slightly."

Millicent drew out a chair at the table and, as she did so, a door opened and a dark-haired young woman with clear gray eyes that flashed in quick appraisal entered the room.

Mrs. Eaton said tonelessly, "I don't think you two have met. This is Millicent Graves—Miss Duchene. Miss Graves is Mr. Jarvis Hap's new secretary, and this, Miss Graves, is Vera Duchene, the personal maid and assistant to Mrs. Hap."

Millicent was curious about this maid. She bowed and said, "I'm very pleased to meet you. Have you breakfasted?"

Miss Duchene shook her head. "No," she said, "and I'm ravenous." She sat down and reached for the electric coffee percolator which was bubbling on the table.

"Did you," asked Mrs. Eaton, "hear about what happened?"

"Oh, yes," Vera Duchene said lightly, almost breezily. "I heard it when the body was discovered."

Millicent buttered a piece of toast. "I'm afraid," she said, "I was very tired. I had a hard day yesterday."

"I heard that you came here yesterday," Miss Duchene said. "I wasn't here last night, you know."

Millicent raised polite eyebrows. "No," Miss Duchene went on. "I was off to the evening. I didn't get in until early this morning."

She checked herself hastily and said, "until very late."

At that moment the door opened, and the officer who had interrogated Millicent entered the room, nodded to Mrs. Eaton and, turning toward Vera Duchene, said, "You're Vera Duchene?"

Miss Duchene raised her gray, appraising eyes to the officer, looked him over with cool speculation.

"Yes," she said, breaking off a piece of toast.

"How long have you been here?" "About six months."

"You knew Harry Felding?" "Of course."

"Did you know he was dead?" "I heard it this morning, yes."

"You weren't here last night?" "Not in the evening. It was my night off."

"Where were you?" "With friends."

"What time did you return here?" "Sometime late last night."

"How late?" "Really, couldn't say."

"Was it as late as midnight?" "It may have been. I didn't look at my watch."

"Did you go to sleep at once?" "Oh, yes."

"Where do you sleep?" "In a room in the back of the house."

"Over the garage, isn't it?" "Yes, that's right."

"You should, then, have heard a shot if it had been fired while you were in your room."

Vera Duchene poured more coffee and said, with what Millicent thought was innate stupidity, "What sort of a shot?"

"A pistol shot—a shot fired from an automatic."

"I don't waken very easily," Miss Duchene said. "Was he shot with an automatic?"

"Well, I didn't hear anything."

"Did you hear the garage door being opened? Did you hear the sound of a car leaving the garage?"

"No."

"I'm afraid I'll have to ask you to check up on the time you returned."

"Perhaps my friends will know."

"You might give me their names."

She stared at him with the impudence which only a pretty woman dares to show to a masculine official.

"And again," she said, "I might not. If you want me to find out, I'll find out—that is, if my friends know—but I wouldn't care to tell you who they are—not now at any rate."

The officer said slowly, "Well, there's probably no question but what it was a stick-up man or a prowler that did the job, but what we can't find out is why Harry Felding should have been out driving Bob Caise's car."

"Was he driving Caise's car?" "Yes. He started out with it, ran out of gasoline and 'walked back.'"

"Doesn't Mr. Hap know?" "No, he can give us no information that is of any assistance."

"If he couldn't," Miss Duchene said, "it's a cinch I can't."

A solid-faced cook appeared with soft-boiled eggs and some fried bacon. Millicent ate the food ravenously. Miss Duchene toyed with toast and coffee, let her eyes appraise the officer.

"My," she said, "but you're big and strong! Tell me, do you have to be a good pistol shot in order to be an officer?"

"You certainly do," he said. "These days they make you practice. They send you to a rookie school."

"It must be fascinating."

He smiled at her and said, "Well, it has its advantages."

"You going to be back here," she asked, "making more investigations?"

"I might arrange to come," he told her.

Her eyes flickered up to his, then dropped back to the coffee cup.

"And you didn't hear anything?" he asked.

"Not a thing," she said.

He left the room. Miss Duchene finished her breakfast, smiled across at Millicent and said, "I hope you'll like it here, but I don't think you will."

"No?" Millicent commented non-committally.

"Has Bob Caise tried his particular brand of technique yet?" Vera Duchene inquired.

"I don't know," Millicent laughed. "It depends on what you mean by his particular brand of technique."

"He's good," Vera Duchene remarked, pushing her chair back from the table. "Well, I'm going to keep my girlish figure. I'll better break away from the food."

Millicent finished her breakfast, kept thinking over Miss Duchene's answers to the officer's questions. Millicent was certain Miss Duchene had started to say that she hadn't returned home until an early hour of the morning. Something had caused her to change her statement and she had lied to the officer. Why?

Her room was over the garage. If she was in her room she must have heard the doors open and close.

Millicent made up her mind and she would ask Miss Duchene some questions on her own account.

She found the back stairs, climbed them, and had no difficulty locating the room over the garage.

The door was slightly ajar. Millicent pushed it open and said, "May I come in?"

She caught a swirl of quick motion.

Miss Duchene had been standing in front of a mirror. Now she whirled toward a closet door and flung something black into the closet.

Millicent had only one swift glimpse, but she could have sworn that the object was a black crimine coat.

FAREWELL TO GOVERNOR

always endeavored to do this and I trust that I have achieved a small measure of success. I was not a young man at the time of my appointment but age affords some compensation, providing experience and a mellowed outlook and an appreciation of the wisdom of considering all points of view. The common aim of officials and unofficial alike should be the good of the Colony and it is essential that there should be mutual confidence. With the best will in the world however and even with the utmost co-operation it may happen that one can do little to help a world which is mainly due to world causes. Hongkong has passed through eventful years. The depression which was felt in other parts of the world was not felt here as early as it was in many places but when it did come it struck us with the force of a typhoon and there is no gainsaying the fact that the depression now lies heavy upon us. As may be seen from the report of the Economic Commission there would appear to be little that we can do locally except perhaps to make an effort to reduce the expenses of administration.

The Colony, after years of vicissitudes, had great prosperity due to stable conditions, the enterprise of British merchants and the industry, loyalty and good citizenship of the Chinese. This prosperity, with a look back to many friendships with them. From the time that I arrived in Malaya at the end of 1897 I was constantly in touch with them and was struck at once by their loyalty, good citizenship and honourable dealing. The race has contributed greatly to the prosperity of that country. I therefore came here with an already formed high opinion which has been maintained. I noticed at once how much they did for their fellow, good which has been done and is still being done by the Tung Wah and other benevolent societies, the Chinese Public Library, the success of the loan float, Dispensaries and the Po Leung Kuk.

To-day that prosperity shows signs of great deterioration. Though I confess being an incurable optimist I cannot but feel some doubt whether the Colony will ever again see those halcyon days but I feel confident that with an improved international situation, economic and political, Hongkong will regain its former substantial measure its former prosperity. The success of the loan float, Dispensaries and the Po Leung Kuk.

ed locally last year affords evidence of faith in the future of the Colony. I cannot however resist expressing the view that it would be far better if less speculation were indulged in and legitimate trading adhered to.

It is essential to maintain good relations with our neighbours and it has been a source of great satisfaction to me that such good relations have continued steadily during my term of office. The recent visit of His Excellency Mr. Lam Yin-koy, Chairman of the Kwangtung Government, afforded further evidence of this. There have been friendly exchanges of visits from time to time and I have recently made further suggestions for an extension of such visits, both official and unofficial, as I feel confident that from such intercourse both our neighbours and ourselves will be able to realize more and more that our interests are interdependent and that we can do much to assist one another.

I am glad to say that our friendly relations with our old allies in Macao have been maintained and I have twice visited that Colony and exchanged visits with the Governor. I feel confident that our friendship will long continue.

I have been greatly touched by the address presented by the Chinese community but I feel that I little deserve the very kind remarks contained therein.

Relations With Chinese

Though it is only five years since I came to Hongkong, I have been associated with Chinese for over thirty-seven and a half years and can look back to many friendships with them. From the time that I arrived in Malaya at the end of 1897 I was constantly in touch with them and was struck at once by their loyalty, good citizenship and honourable dealing. The race has contributed greatly to the prosperity of that country. I therefore came here with an already formed high opinion which has been maintained. I noticed at once how much they did for their fellow, good which has been done and is still being done by the Tung Wah and other benevolent societies, the Chinese Public Library, the success of the loan float, Dispensaries and the Po Leung Kuk.

is too well known to call for more than a passing reference. In education they have done much. They have given generous support both in money and time to such important organisations as the Society for the Protection of Children, the St. John Ambulance Association, the Salvation Army and the Aberdeen Industrial School.

In the District Watch Committee I have had a most loyal and useful body of advisers who, though they may not always have seen entirely eye to eye with the Government, have always given me the most loyal support. They have shown their confidence in Government and even where there was a measure of disagreement, have recognised that Government is working for what it regards as the greatest good of the people.

The Chinese have given in the past very generous and substantial support to the University but I should like to take this opportunity on the eve of my departure of making a further appeal in this direction.

We decided some time ago to establish a Chinese Department and are trying to carry this out although the finances of the University render it somewhat difficult. There is an endowment fund for this Department amounting to some $200,000. I should like to see my Chinese friends make that up to $500,000 so as to cover approximately the cost of the Department and so render its future free from anxiety.

I should like to take this opportunity of saying how delighted I was by the wonderful contribution of the Chinese Community to the recent Silver Jubilee celebrations. It has left an impression on my memory which will never be effaced. I wish to pay a tribute to the crowds on that occasion; they were a model of good behaviour and no one who saw them could fail to be impressed by this.

I have now arranged for an expert in co-operation who is at present advising the Government of China, to come here in about one month's time and after enquiry give us the benefit of his advice with a view to introducing a system of

YUNNAN REORGANISATION

MACAO'S BID FOR POPULARITY

NEW ENTERTAINMENT PLANS

An effort to draw attention to Macao through the establishment of an entertainment hall, combining all the usual programmes of music, dancing, cinema performances, as well as drinks of all kinds, and food, particularly Portuguese cuisine, though Chinese meals will also be provided, in conjunction with the amenities of club life, is a feature of the new policy of the Macao authorities.

Established under the direct control of the Macao Economic Studies Department, the object of the new departure is to make visits to Macao as interesting as possible, and not only will the new establishments attempt to provide visitors with all conveniences under one roof, but they will also do everything possible to encourage interest in the historic and other attractions of the Colony.

In order that it may be easy for visitors to make the trip to Macao in comfort and as expeditiously as possible, arrangements are being made to place fast and comfortable steamers on the run between Macao and Hongkong as well as Canton.

The opening ceremony of the first of the new establishments is to take place on May 18, when the "Victoria" Palace is to be formally inaugurated in the presence of many distinguished visitors.

KINGSFORD-SMITH REACHES LAND SAFELY

PLANE'S MOTORS FAILED

REPORTED SINKING IN TASMAN SEA

RADIO TOLD THRILLING TALE OF ADVENTURE

Sydney, May 15.

Reported sinking in the Tasman Sea, Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, and two companions, is now definitely reported safely landed at 3.30 o'clock this afternoon, local time.

Sir Charles was earlier reported down at sea, the engines of the tri-motor monoplane Southern Cross, having failed him. Rescue vessels were racing from this port.

Sir Charles has with him Capt. P. C. Taylor, who was his navigator on the recent Pacific crossing, and a wireless operator, J. Stannidge.

The three men were flying a Jubilee Air Mail from Sydney to Wellington, N.Z., and were 500 miles at sea when their engines first gave signs of failing.

The following despatches are through Reuter:

Sir Charles Kingsford Smith, famous Australian pilot, who left Sydney yesterday on a special Jubilee flight with a huge load of air mail for New Zealand, has wirelessed that he is in difficulties half-way across the Tasman Sea, with one propeller gone and another engine spluttering.

"I am dumping cargo. Unable to keep height. May have to dump mail and petrol. Hope Sydney will have fast destroyer handy but hope reach coast."

Later
Sir Charles has sent out an S.O.S., giving his position as 500 miles from Sydney.

Apparently there are no ships near him. Nor are there any planes here fit to go to the rescue. The cruiser Canberra, however, is being despatched.

He has with him his companion of many adventures, Navigator Taylor, and a wireless operator named Stannidge.

They were carrying 34,000 letters and 1,400 pounds of freight, part of which was taken from Ulm's former plane, Faith of Australia which had intended to accompany the Southern Cross on her flight to New Zealand.

HEADING FOR HOME

Sir Charles has now sent a radio message that he is making good progress towards Sydney. He is only 220 miles away now.

"Tell wives not to worry," the fliers' message said. "Still flying."

The pilot steamer, Captain Cook, has gone out to meet the plane. Shipping in the vicinity has been instructed to keep a look-out for the Southern Cross.

PLANE FALLING

At 2.05 o'clock this afternoon the Southern Cross wireless operator flashed the word that the plane was sinking.

Sir Charles sent a message to the shore-station to which they had been talking:

"Afraid I in sea, old man. Centre motor gone now."

That would leave the plane with but one motor functioning, and that imperfectly.

Later,

Sir Charles has landed safely at 3.30 p.m.

REPORTS IN LONDON

London, May 14.
An Exchange Telegraph message from Melbourne states it is feared Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, whose plane, the Southern Cross, dropped a propeller on a flight from Sydney to Wellington, is lost.

Sir Charles' last message was received in Melbourne at 12.16 p.m., says this news source. It read:

"Now going down."
The crew includes Capt. P. C. Taylor and Wireless Operator J. Stannidge.

The Southern Cross was 680

AUSTRIA TO BUILD AIR FORCE

VON STARHEMBERG TO COMMAND

TESTING OPINION

Vienna, May 14.
Following the example of Germany, Austria has taken what will be regarded as a decisive step towards the building up of an official Air Force, contrary to the terms of the Treaty of Versailles. A meeting of the General Staff of the Helmswehr to-night, at which the Vice-Chancellor and Helmswehr chief, Prince von Starheimberg presided, it was decided to form a special Helmswehr flying corps.

Prince von Starheimberg will be the commander-in-chief.

The move is regarded in political circles as an experiment to test the Little Entente's attitude towards an Austrian Air Force.—Reuter.

Reno, May 14.

Divorced from Prince Alexis Mdivant yesterday, after a secret six-minute hearing before a court which supported her charge of cruelty, the former Miss Barbara Hutton, heiress of the Woolworth millions, was married again today.

The new husband is Count Reventlow of Denmark. They were married this morning at a private ceremony.—Reuter Special.

From Sydney when she reported herself in difficulties and Sir Charles decided to turn back, leaving his two remaining engines.

Later the second engine failed.

One message from the fliers said they hoped to reach Sydney at 2 p.m. They were then 260 miles out at sea. That message was sent before the second motor failed.—United Press.

Reaction To Rise In Silver

H.K. AND SHANGHAI DOLLARS FIRM

BULLISH TENDENCY

There has been no marked reaction in Hongkong or Shanghai to the over-night increase in London Silver prices, or to the apparently "bullish" statements of the Secretary of the United States Treasury, Mr. Henry Morgenthau, with respect to the American silver policy.

The Hongkong dollar advanced a quarter to 2s. 4 1/2d. and in Shanghai the foreign exchange market was steady, with rates around yesterday's closing levels.

The absence of firmness in Shanghai is due to the belief that the silver price will rise sharply, by the fact that business was done at a halfpenny below the official price after the fixing, says the United Press.

The general consensus of opinion in Shanghai is that Mr. Morgenthau's speech was bullish for silver and bearish for sterling in relation to the United States dollar, this agency adds.

Although silver prices in London yesterday substantially advanced, following the bullish interpretation of Mr. Morgenthau's speech, the Hongkong dollar rose only a farthing this morning, the sellers and 2s. 5 1/2d. buyers.

With the local dollar falling to react to silver prices, the market on opening was very quiet, the business rates being 2s. 5 1/4d. sellers and 2s. 5 1/2d. buyers.

In London, silver rose 1 1/2d. spot and 1 1/2d. forward. India and China bought, but sellers were scarce. The market closed uncertain, with business done at the finish a halfpenny under the rate.

SHANGHAI RATES

Shanghai, May 15.
Opening rates on the Foreign Exchange Market today were U.S. dollars, 41 1/2, Sterling, 1/8 1/2, and Gold Bars $773.80.—United Press.

NEW YORK MARKET

New York, May 14.
Messrs. Handy & Harmon quoted silver 74 7/8 cents per ounce to-day. On the foreign exchange market the dollar was steady.—United Press.

An old man named Yu Tak, aged 75, unemployed, was brought before Mr. Grantham at the Central Magistracy this morning, charged with begging in Wyndham Street, at the corner of Gloucester. Defendant denied begging, but was convicted, and fined $5, or seven days' imprisonment.

FOREIGN GUNMEN SOUGHT

DARING HOLD-UP IN SHANGHAI

JEWELLER ROBBED

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright. Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1926. Received, May 15, 2.15 p.m.)

Shanghai, May 15.
Three armed foreigners, believed to be Americans, held up the well-known jewellers' establishment, Sennet Freres, in Nanking Road at 1.20 o'clock to-day.

They bound the Chinese clerks with copper wire and gagged them with adhesive tape, and then set about ransacking the safe, which was already open, in a leisurely fashion.

All this while hundreds of people were passing the doors of the store on their way to and from their luncheons.

The bandits escaped with the contents of twenty-four trays of diamonds, jewellery of all sorts, and watches, valued at many thousands of dollars.

This is the first hold-up by foreigners in the history of Shanghai. Police are bending every effort towards the apprehension of the gangsters.—United Press.

400 DIE IN MINE DISASTER

CAVE-IN NEAR TSINGTAO

RESCUERS HELPLESS

Tsingtao, May 15.
It is feared that 400 miners have perished in a cave-in in the Chichuen District coal mines, near Tsingtao.

While over 400 were below ground yesterday afternoon, the whole roof of one of the largest drift workings collapsed.

Besides the miners, there were eleven Chinese and Japanese engineers underground. It is feared that all have perished.

To add to the horror, immediately after the cave-in, water poured into the workings. Even if, before the flooding, the miners might have been reached before they suffocated behind the wall of rock which cut them off from succour, the rising water made hope of rescue too remote to be considered.

Nevertheless, rescue gangs immediately set to work in the undamaged end of the drift. They cut a way to water and attempted to pump the interior workings free. The pumps failed.

Hope for the entombed men has now been abandoned.—Central News.

RIOTS AND THREATS

Tsingtao, May 15.
Serious incidents have arisen following the mine disaster at the Chichuen Colliery, near Tsinan, with the result that the Japanese Consul General at Tsinan, Mr. Koichinshida, has asked General Han Fu-chu to despatch troops to the scene, owing to riots and threats by the relatives of the four hundred Chinese miners who have been drowned.

The disaster was caused by the bursting of a hidden spring, which flooded the galleries within forty minutes.

One Japanese engineer is also among those drowned.—Reuter.

Tsingtao, May 15.
It is now definitely established that more than 400 Chinese miners were drowned in the No. 2 pit of the coal mine at Chichuen, which is a joint Sino-Japanese concern.

The collapse of a stone wall in the pit was the cause of the sudden rushing-in of water from the Chichuen River nearby.—Central News.

Lawrence's Condition Critical

MOTHER NOTIFIED IN CHINA

BROTHER FLIES TO LONDON

(Special to "Telegraph")

London, May 14.

Colonel T. E. Lawrence, the man who conquered the Turks and their allies in Arabia, is lying unconscious in hospital with a fractured skull, and very near to death.

He deliberately wrecked his motor-cycle in an attempt to avoid striking a boy cyclist, Albert Hargreaves, 15. Hargreaves was very slightly hurt in the collision which Lawrence could not quite prevent.—United Press.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

London, May 14.

Lieut.-Col. T. E. Lawrence, Britain's hero of Arabia, injured yesterday when he attempted to avoid a collision with a boy on a bicycle, is known to be in a critical condition. He will be unconscious for several days, doctors said.

The veil of official secrecy was lifted this afternoon and it was admitted that Lawrence, or T. E. Shaw, as he is now legally named, was suffering from concussion and a fractured skull.

Major-General J. W. West, honorary surgeon to His Majesty the King, and another specialist, were called into consultation.

The consultation lasted until nearly midnight, after which it was announced that Lawrence's condition was still critical but there were hopes for his recovery.

The authorities in London are being kept constantly informed of Lawrence's condition.

Lawrence was apparently flung a considerable distance from the motor-cycle he was riding. It is thought he jammed on his brakes to their fullest in an attempt to avoid a collision with a boy cyclist, who was slightly hurt and is suffering from a mild concussion.

Lawrence's brother has arrived in London by air from the South of France. Mrs. Lawrence, mother of the famous "cavalier soldier," and his elder brother, who are in China, have been notified by wireless of the accident.—Reuter.

MANCHULI PARLEY

Changchun, May 15.

The Manchukuo authorities have notified the Outer Mongolian Government of their concurrence in the suggestion that Manchuli should be the venue of the coming Manchukuo-Outer-Mongolia Parley for the settlement of the outstanding border disputes. They also agreed that the parley should commence on May 26.—Central News.

BRITAIN TO TREBLE DEFENCE FORCE?

CABINET CONSIDERING NEW PROGRAMME

There have been developments in the military camps of Europe during the past few days which are believed to be highly significant. The most important is announced from London by Reuter to-day. It is to the effect that Great Britain, in the immediate future, will probably treble the strength of her home defence air forces, increasing them from forty-three to a hundred and twenty-eight squadrons.

Meanwhile, in Vienna, it is announced that the Heimwehr has decided to follow Germany's lead and build an Air Force, with Prince von Starheimberg at its head. Paris is testing her air defences.

In Rome Mussolini has just announced that Britain and France will not interfere in the Italo-Abyssinian dispute and in Moscow M. Pierre Laval, French Foreign Minister and M. Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian Commissar for Foreign Affairs, are discussing ways and means of extending to Eastern Europe a form of Locarno pact.

LEAVING ITALY ALONE

BRITAIN, FRANCE WON'T MEDDLE

ABYSSINIAN PROBLEM

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright. Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1926. Received, May 15, 11 a.m.)

Paris, May 14.

Neither the French nor British Government has any desire to annoy Italy, or to offend Signor Mussolini, by intervening in the dispute between Italy and Abyssinia, well-informed circles declared here to-day.

However, both Britain and France would probably discreetly express their desire for a mixed Arbitration Commission instead of one in which Italy and Abyssinia were the only nations represented, save for the neutral chairman.

In a speech delivered in Rome, Signor Mussolini told the Senate that the British and French were not planning diplomatic action in connection with the quarrel with Abyssinia.—United Press.

GREAT CROWD AT PALACE

THEIR MAJESTIES' FIRST BALL

(Special to "Telegraph")

London, May 14.
Over 2,000 persons are dancing to-night at Buckingham Palace at the biggest and most important ball held there since before the Great War.

In the first two Jubilee Court Balls the King and Queen are not dancing, but are watching proceedings from a dais at one end of the ballroom, which is decked with a profusion of choice blooms.

The programme for to-night's ball includes waltzes, fox-trots and polkas.—Reuter Special.

London, May 14.
The Daily Telegraph Air Correspondent understands that plans for the rapid expansion of the Royal Air Force are being considered by the Cabinet, for the purpose of trebling the home defence force.

It is suggested that the forty-three home squadrons of 498 planes will be expanded to 128 squadrons of 1,460 machines.

This expansion will take place over a period of two years and will mean the virtual doubling of the entire strength of the Royal Air Force, at home and abroad.—Reuter.

MOSCOW TALKS

Moscow, May 14.
M. Pierre Laval, French Foreign Minister, conferred with M. Stalin, Russian Dictator, and the Russian Foreign Affairs Commissar, M. Maxim Litvinoff, to-day.

Their conversations were concerned with the Franco-Soviet plan for an Eastern European treaty obliging the signatories to submit, if the occasion arose, to economic penalties against any act of aggression, and to insist upon the penalties against any of their number which violated the treaty's provisions.—United Press.

Grave Labour Troubles

U.S. GOVERNMENT WON'T INTERVENE

(Special to "Telegraph")

San Francisco, May 14.
The Marine Federation has so far not kept its threat to take a general strike vote unless Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary for Labour, intervenes in the tanker strike.

Mr. F. M. Kelly, the Federation Secretary, says the rank and file are exercising pressure to decree that neither longshoremen nor seamen shall work on any vessel fuelling with non-Union oil.

"Such a move," he says, "would be so far-reaching that we do not want to consider it, but the pressure is heavy, due to the Government ignoring the request for intervention."—United Press.

Chicago, May 14.
The death has occurred from peritonitis of Mr. Edward Brant Frost, the well-known astronomer, who was Director of Yerkes Observatory from 1905 to 1932.—Reuter.

SEX DOES MATTER

BOYS NEED MEN
AS TEACHERS
SCHOOLMASTER
TELLS WHY

A strong attack on the "feminists" of the teaching profession, who, he said, to gain their own selfish ends would willingly wreck the educational system of this country and invert society itself, was made by Mr. F. C. Arkless in his presidential address at the annual conference of the National Association of Schoolmasters at Swansen. Mr. Arkless also criticised the Board of Education.

Mr. Arkless said that he was not at all sure that the development of character in our schools was viewed with favour by "the powers that be." It was true, he added, that the Board of Education, in the "suggestions for teachers," placed the development of character in the forefront of the work of the schools, yet was this not merely "eye wash"?

"Character has its basis in sex. A man is not a fitting person to develop the character of a girl for the simple reason that he has never trod the path she is to tread. For the same reason, a woman is not a fitting person to develop character in a boy.

"Yet the Board of Education is content to allow thousands and thousands of boys to remain under the control and influence of women teachers.

"And what of the teaching profession itself? It consists of men, women, and feminists. To our women colleagues we pay high and sincere tribute. The girls in our schools are immeasurably enriched by virtue of their unselfish devotion and their womanly qualities. Unfortunately, many of them are the victims of a system and find themselves in charge of boys' classes.

SELFISH ENDS

"The feminists are in a different category altogether. We are thankful that they do not, and never shall, represent womanhood. To gain their own selfish ends they would willingly wreck the educational system and invert society itself. The glamour they raise is out of all proportion to their numbers. 'Sex does not matter!' they cry in their shrill and strident voices, or through the mezzo-sopranoes of their paid propagandists—persons with no professional responsibilities, with no relation to the children in the schools, with no thought but to earn their money by piping the tune, with infinite variations, they are paid to play.

"But in spite of the feminists nature remains natural. Sex does matter. There are problems to be met with in boys' classes—sex problems whose nature does not allow of their discussion from the house tops, problems of far greater moment than arithmetic or composition, or any other subject of the curriculum, problems fundamental to life itself.

"The feminist would say they do not exist, or they do not matter. Any schoolmaster of experience knows they do exist. Probably only a man would be aware of them. Certainly only a man can deal with them."

To place women as the standard of imitation before boys above the age of seven was to place the wrong standard before them, and infanility, due to arrested development, would result.

For physiological, psychological, and psychic reasons a boy needed the supervision, the help, the

SUN-BATHING WARNING

Dr. W. Hunter, Medical Officer of Health for West Bridgford, Notts, in his annual report, says that the modern craze for sun-bathing may be dangerous. He declares that by causing skin irritation it may lead to pre-cancerous conditions, and actually to cancer of exposed parts of the body. The public, and especially young people, should be warned to avoid unnecessary sunburn. It was remarkable that the cancer mortality of the world was highest in Switzerland, which was considered a health resort, and lowest in Japan, where great poverty was not unknown.

guidance, which only a man could give.

"It is," proceeded Mr. Arkless, "the indisputable right of the boy to have that supervision, that help, that guidance provided for him in school."

CHILDREN AND INDUSTRY.

Referring to the problem of educating the child for industry, Mr. Arkless said that he was convinced that schools must make every provision to educate children for their lives in industry.

The last 100 years had brought fundamental changes in industrial and social life, and it might be well for those who were responsible for fitting the rising generations to take their places in adult life to pause and view the conditions the children in schools would have to face.

Material wealth had increased far beyond what was envisaged only a hundred years ago, and the improved means of communication had drawn nearer the corners of the earth to-day. Yet he questioned whether we were getting the right benefits from either.

"We are so eager to acquire wealth that the acquiring of it has almost come to be regarded as the end in itself, and not merely as the means to an end whereby a man can lead a fuller life," he added. "And so intent are we amassing material riches that we neglect the richer and more lasting immaterial wealth. Who, nowadays, for instance, has time for the glory of a dawn and the chorus of the birds which precedes it?"

PARACHUTE JUMPER INJURED

BROKE LEG TO PLEASE CROWD

London. A parachutist who made a perilous descent from 1,600 feet in a strong wind over Reading aerodrome because he did not want to disappoint a waiting crowd, broke his leg above the ankle. "I have never seen a parachutist carried so fast. We all thought he had been killed when he reached the middle of the aerodrome," said a member of Reading Aero club. Mr. Gwynne Johns, 25, the parachutist, is an ironmonger's clerk in a store at Aberystwyth. He had taken a week's holiday to make an attempt on the record drop before the parachute is opened, and was paying for it out of his modest wages. He makes a hobby of parachuting. Earlier in the day he flew from Reading to Salisbury Plain to attempt to jump from 20,000 feet and to drop 18,000 feet before opening his parachute. Over the Plain, however, it was raining heavily and no jump was possible.

Flight-Lieutenant R. E. Milne, chief instructor at Reading, Mr. Johns' pilot, said: "When we got back to Reading, Mr. Gwynne Johns thought he would do a small jump, not an attempt on the record.

"There was a stiff wind and we advised him not to do so. He landed quite well, however, but drifted very fast and was dragged flat on the ground about 200 yards."

"I find jumping a relief from the monotony of my work," Mr. Johns said before his flight. "Falling through the air has always attracted me immensely. I made my first parachute jump about three years ago. I have made 17, my best from a height of 13,000 feet, delaying the opening of the parachute for 45 seconds—a fall of 9,000 feet."—Special.

and unemployed men, Mr. Arkless proceeded, was perhaps a sign of that deterioration which set in when schooldays were finished.

BUNKUM

"We are told that high finance is a delicate, complicated matter, a mystery to be understood by only a chosen few. That is bunkum. It is a device of the high priests of finance to distract attention from their real activities, a device invented by their forebears, the witch doctors, who, gifted with a certain amount of low cunning, set up the worship of Mumbo Jumbo, and derived therefrom—a comfortable living for themselves by preying upon the credulity of their fellow-creatures."

He did not believe that the old days were better than these. He believed that ours was an age of greater fullness, of greater chances for the enjoyment of life, of greater opportunities for good than any age which had gone.

"What I am afraid of is that we, and more particularly the children following us, shall be content to drift, and shall fail to appreciate the fullness, to seize the chances, to take the opportunities."

He said that all too many of the children were directly affected by the unemployment question. They were ill-housed, ill-clothed, and ill-fed, ready victims of illness and disease.

Referring to the question of the school-leaving age which, he said, must be raised, Mr. Arkless proceeded: "Those who put any obstacle in the way of the achievement of this raising of the school-leaving age are waging war upon the children, who cannot fight for themselves."

THE DECCA PORTROLA

A complete all electric radio-gram in the compass of an ordinary acoustic portable. Something that—until the introduction of this truly remarkable little instrument was considered out of the question. But the seemingly impossible has been accomplished and DECCA—the inventors of the first acoustic portable—now introduce the world's first portable radio-gram.

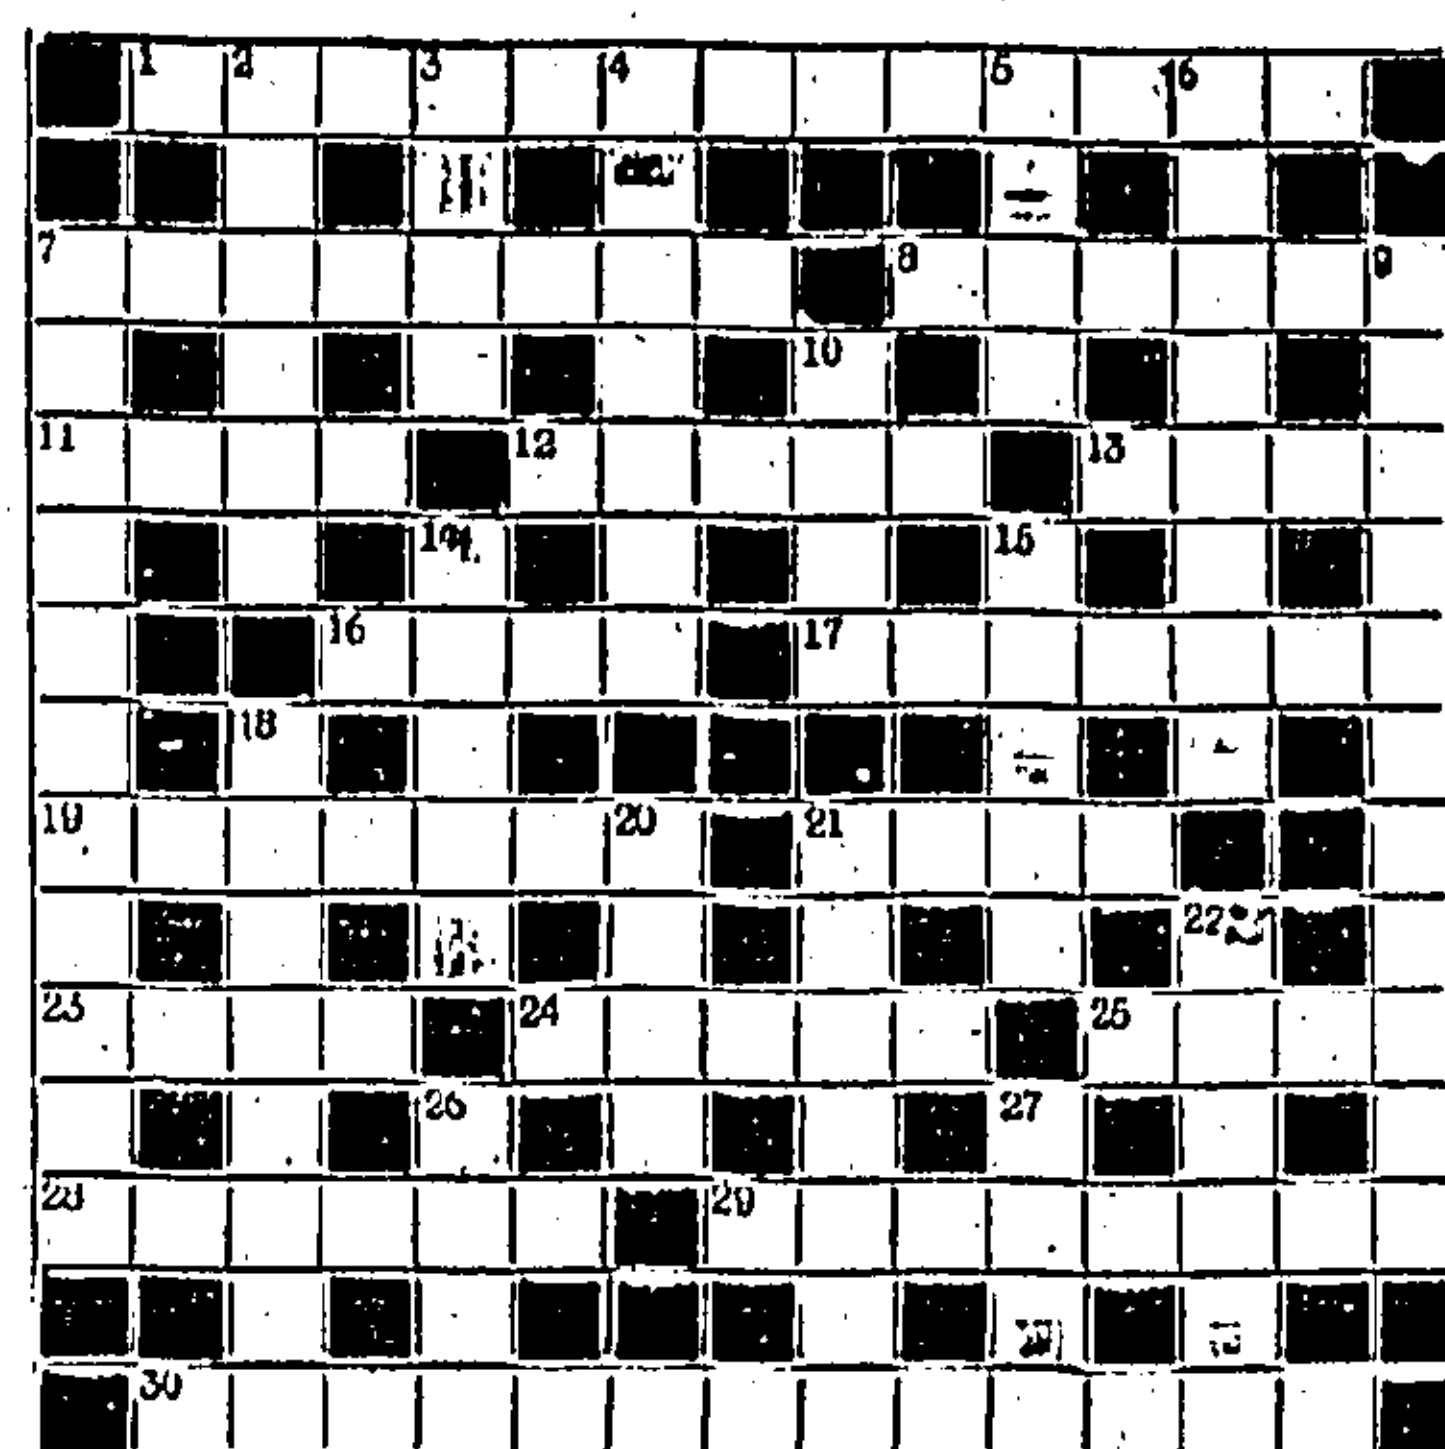

A marvel of ingenuity, the 'Portrola' is distinguished not merely for its portability and novelty, but it really is a highly efficient radio-gram, giving superlative results on radio or records and challenging favourable comparison with most multi-valve receivers.

NEW YORK STOCK
EXCHANGEMARKET UPWARD
YESTERDAY

New York, May 14.
The following report on the New York Stock market has been received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson &
Fritz:

The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market:—Stocks to-day were higher, led by oil issues as the result of favourable reports by the industry. The advance in the price of silver, due to the fact that Secretary Morgenthau had indicated that the Administration's policy will not be changed, also had a favourable influence. Stocks on the Club Exchange were irregular. Utility shares were weak. Bonds were irregular, with Government issues displaying an easier tendency.

S. C. & F. New York office cables:
Prices were unchanged as the market dries up on selling. General news was featureless.
Cotton: The market was too near the loan price to attract new volume or buying and business was mostly trade switching. It is reported that the Cotton Pool made some large sales for export. The market was steady on the possibility that Congress will override the President's vote regarding the Patman Bill and on the Government's intention to take delivery of cotton if necessary.

Wheat: Contract deliveries totalled
$44,000 bushels to-day on the belief that Winter Estimates will be raised.
The consensus of opinion is bullish,
but technical rallies are probable.
Corn: Deliveries to-day totalled 10-
000 bushels, indicating the strength of near options.

Rubber: This market was firm with the Trade good buyers. Off-grades were scarce. A bullish consumption report is expected to-morrow. Sentiment has improved.

VALEDICTORY

Fitting tribute to Sir William Peel, as a Governor and as a man, was paid at the farewell gathering held at the University last evening. Those who have enjoyed personal contact with His Excellency during his tenure of office in Hongkong will warmly endorse the high encomiums expressed, conscious that they in no sense over-stated the services which he has rendered to all sections of the community. When His Excellency leaves our shores on Friday, he will not only be giving up the Governorship of the Colony; he will also be ending a Colonial career which has covered a period of nearly forty years—a career spent wholly in the East, and one marked by steady, unremitting labours on behalf of the Crown. It was fitting that that career should have reached its culmination in a Colonial Governorship, for which His Excellency's talents so eminently fitted him. When he came to Hongkong, Sir William Peel was entering his final tour of service. A less conscientious man, in view of his arduous toil over a period of many years in none too congenial a climate, might have been content to rest on his oars. But, from the start, His Excellency set a fine example of zeal and energy to those under him, and, what is more, displayed an amazing adaptability in gaining a quick grasp of the Colony's peculiar problems, which he has maintained ever since. Deaf to the pleas of sectional and special interests, he has nevertheless set himself a course based on the common weal, with a clear appreciation of the Colony's true needs and with an especially sympathetic regard for the claims of the less fortunate members of the community. His Excellency's consideration for the masses has been evident in a whole series of acts, in which the provision of better medical services, infant welfare centres, children's playgrounds, and the initiation of an inquiry into the overcrowding evil are outstanding examples, whilst the same solicitude is shown in the promising start made in the realm of technical education, as also in the creation of a juvenile offenders' court, a court of criminal appeal, and a cheaper and more expeditious process for appeal against magisterial convictions. Of the Colony's major problems, it was truthfully stated at yesterday's gathering that most have either

NOTES OF THE DAY

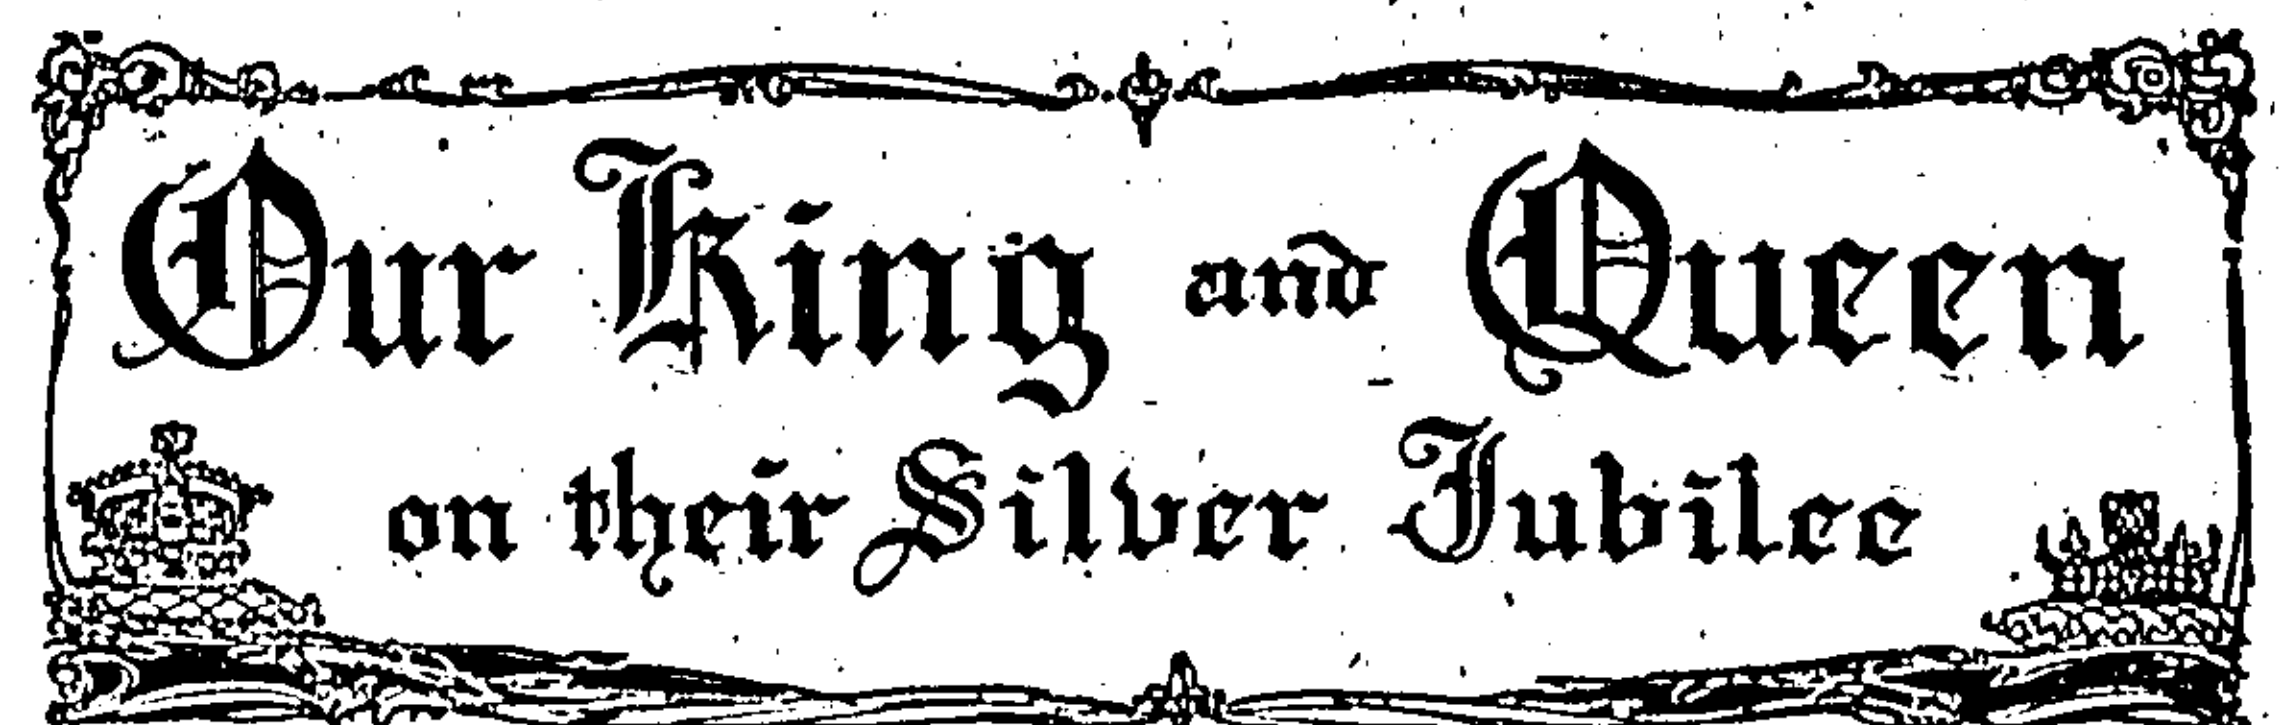

SEAMEN'S HOURS

Japanese and Chinese delegates to the International Labour Conference in Geneva have recently passed through Hongkong, thus directing attention to this big annual gathering under League of Nations auspices. It is of interest, in this connection, to note that the proposed special Maritime Session of the Conference has now been postponed. Recently, the question was discussed by the Joint Maritime Commission of the I.L.O., which acts as the adviser of the Governing Body in questions affecting seamen. The seamen's organizations had proposed that the discussion of seamen's hours of work should also include that of manning—a matter of considerable interest just now to Britain and other countries. The proposal was accepted by the Commission. "The views of the seamen and the ship-owners," it is reported, "were stated frankly but in a very conciliatory spirit," and the Commission reached a practically unanimous decision. It recommends that not later than November, 1935, there should be a special preparatory Conference, tripartite in composition, to consider (a) manning in relation to hours of work on board ship and (b) paid holidays for seamen; thereafter the special Maritime Session of the International Labour Conference should meet in the autumn of 1936. All the questions which have been standing over for several years should come up in 1936 with two new questions added, of manning and of paid holidays. This last, of course, is as it were complementary of this year's regular session of the Conference, for which the question of paid holidays for industrial workers is on the agenda.

THE WORLD'S WORKLESS

On the 1st of last month the I.L.O. issued its Quarterly Statistics of the World Unemployment Situation. For most countries, there is an improvement as compared with the first months of 1934, but the decline in the number of unemployed is in most cases smaller than that recorded for the last quarter of 1934; the exceptions are Chile, Italy, Norway and Rumania. Compared with the same period last year, there is a marked increase of unemployment in Belgium, France, Holland, Irish Free State and Poland, and a smaller increase in Bulgaria, Spain and Yugoslavia. In general, and owing mainly to seasonal fluctuations, there is more unemployment than in the last quarter of 1934. The statistics are drawn up differently in different countries; the (Continued on next column)

been solved or placed on a fair way towards solution during His Excellency's regime. In this connection, the manner in which Sir William has expedited work on the Shing Mun waterworks scheme stands out as a noteworthy example of his appreciation of primary needs. In all these matters, and many more which could be cited, Sir William has displayed marked ability as an administrator. But, above all else, he has been a very "human" Governor—kindly and considerate in disposition, as the Chinese address so aptly expressed it; a man of compassion, but withal firm in following a course when he believed it to be right; and, in all his deeds, guided by innate common-sense. Whilst upholding and even enhancing the dignity of his office, Sir William Peel has never stood aloof; he has ever sought and readily listened to advice; and, where interests have conflicted, has held the balance fairly and evenly. Towards the Press of the Colony he has been cordial in his contacts, always accessible, and free and frank in the regular exchange of views on matters of concern to the Colony. Hongkong will assuredly be the loser by his departure from our midst. Of Lady Peel, it can be said that not only has she proved an ideal chaperone at Government House, maintaining its traditions with a quiet dignity and grace, but also that she has been constant, in season and out, in social work of very real value. She leaves behind her, in the new Health Centre at Wanchai and in the Cheero Club, tangible evidence of her services to the community. We join with the Colony in general in wishing His Excellency and Lady Peel many years of health and happiness in the Old Country, there to enjoy the retirement which they have so richly earned.

King George and His Favourite Pastime.

King George's favourite sport is shooting and his indulgence in this pastime from early youth has made him one of the four best shots in England.

Be it grouse shooting at Balmoral, tiger hunting in India or deer hunting in Scotland, the King is regarded as a man of rare proficiency with firearms. He is particularly fast on the "draw," and possesses an iron nerve that never fails him.

Once in India, when a wounded tiger charged an elephant on which the King was mounted, he coolly waited until the ferocious beast made a lunge for the mount and then fired, one shot doing the trick. It was a splendid illustration of coolness.

Our pictures to-day show the King at his favourite sport.

Second only to shooting in the King's favour is yachting; after that he prefers soccer, a game he used to play with some vigour and skill as a midshipman in the Navy.

King George has two indoor hobbies, one of which has earned him fame the world over. That is stamp-collecting. His other collection is of antique watches and clocks. Made up entirely of British Empire issues, the King's stamp collection is said to be worth over £100,000.

One sport that the King has played but in which he never became interested was golf. Only one or two occasions are recorded in which His Majesty chased the elusive ball.

To-morrow: The King recovers from his illness.

figures for some countries are far from expressing the facts. Exact international comparisons are out of the question—but some tendencies can safely be deduced.

BOLD LEAD WANTED

At a rough estimate, the I.L.O. puts the total of unemployed throughout the world (exclusive of India and China and other countries where the problem is hardly defined in the Western sense) at 25 millions. About one quarter of these—between 6 and 7 millions—are young persons under 25 years of age. The figures are startling and emphasise the seriousness of the problem, which comes before the International Labour Conference this summer. Whether any country will take the lead at the Conference and propose bold measures, remains to be seen; the proposals of the Office, put up as a basis of discussion, are in the nature of things palliatives rather than cures—though even as palliatives they are probably too sweeping for a good many of the Governments.

TO-DAY'S MOTORING HINT CAUSES OF OVERHEATING

Frequent causes of overheating are concerned with the oil, ignition, carburation, valves, brakes and air leaks.

If there is a shortage of oil in the engine the increased friction raises the engine temperature. If the spark is retarded unduly, according to the needs of the moment, it has the same effect; this, by the way, may be due to a stuck automatic governor or hand control. A weak mixture, whether caused by incorrect setting of the carburettor or a partially choked fuel system, burns very slowly and the heat generated has not the same chance of being dissipated.

If a valve is stuck it means that the firing mixture is weakened and this has the same effect as the last mentioned. If the brakes are badly adjusted and rub continually against the drum the engine load is increased; this can be determined by the heat of the drums. Lastly, if there are air leaks in the induction system a weaker mixture results.

LINER STEWARD MISSING

BELIEVED LOST OVERBOARD

The Empress of Japan, which arrived here yesterday, brought news of a tragic occurrence which took place during her first night out from Manila.

Early on Tuesday morning the second steward, Mr. James Ashmore, was found to be missing, and it was assumed that he had been lost overboard. The ship did not put back, since it was believed that the steward had been lost many hours before.

The Staff Captain of the Empress of Japan said yesterday that it was quite certain that Ashmore had not been left in Manila when the ship sailed. He was in the best of health and spirits on leaving Manila.

Mr. Ashmore was a well-known figure on the Empress of Japan, tall, well-built, and most popular. He had been with the ship for eight months and with the Company for many years, previously having served on the Atlantic run.

LORRY TOPPLES OVER

TWO MEN RECEIVE INJURIES

Two Chinese were injured, one seriously, when a goods lorry overturned whilst proceeding up Dairy Farm Hill, Pokfulam Road, yesterday.

The cause of the mishap is being investigated by the police. The vehicle appears to have swerved violently to one side of the road, and overturned on meeting an embankment.

The two men in the lorry, one of whom was the driver, were thrown out. They were removed to the Government Civil Hospital.

CLOUDY WEATHER

The anticyclone to the east of Japan is weakening. The anticyclone to the north of the Lower Yangtze Valley is increasing in intensity and extending southward. The depression is moving E.N.E. across the northern part of the sea of Japan. Local forecast:—East winds, moderate to fresh; cloudy.

WORLD'S BIGGEST AUCTION

MAURETANIA'S COSTLY FITTINGS SOLD

SMALL PRICES OBTAINED

(Special to "Telegraph")

The auctioneer took command of the one-time Queen of the Seas, the Mauretania, at Southampton today.

With characteristic coaxing he opened the world's greatest "auction sale," consisting of the whole of the interior fittings in several thousand lots, costly panelling, the steering wheel of the old ship, and the letters of the ship's name, which are among the much-coveted items on his list.

Facilities were given to purchasers to acquire whole rooms, complete, for reconstruction ashore.

The prices bore little relation to the original cost of the fittings and at the end of the day it was discovered that £2,500 had been realised for articles which cost £50,000.

The sale will continue for one week.—Reuter Special.

OVERWHELMING MAJORITY

PHILIPPINES POLL FOR CONSTITUTION

Manila, May 15. The Filipinos have overwhelmingly ratified the Commonwealth Constitution. Early returns from the plebiscite, commenced yesterday, show a 50-1 majority in favour of the Constitution.

Despite elaborate preparations for celebrations by the Sakalistas, the plebiscite was carried out without disorders.

Women voted for the first time. Incomplete official returns on the plebiscite gave a total of 645,381 votes in favour of the new Constitution and 21,145 against.—Reuter.

Paris Tests Defences

POPULACE OBSERVES EFFECT OF RAID

(Special to "Telegraph")

Paris, May 14. The city's first air raid drill was held today, and lasted from 10 until 10.45 a.m., after six drill sirens had screamed their warning in different parts of the city.

Their shrill clamour told the populace that enemy aircraft were approaching and the tattoo of anti-aircraft batteries confirmed the news.

Thousands of Parisians lining the boulevards witnessed realistic picture of an air raid of the future. Police and firemen were dressed in gas-proof suits, with a peaked hood and big black-shouldered gas-masks.

They rushed from place to place where theatrical gas-bombs were dropped.

Fire engines raced through the streets with a great clanging of bells and ambulances followed them, seeking for gassed citizens. Firemen were detailed to play these unpleasant parts.

The casualties were conveyed to underground first aid stations, rendered air-tight by a series of rubber curtains, where Red Cross nurses were in attendance.

These air raid drills are being carried out in every capital of Europe. Berlin has seen the most carefully planned and executed, the most extensive and realistic. There were real bombs used in the Berlin demonstrations.

Meanwhile, experts are attempting to prove whether or not a barrage of gas-shells and shrapnel, fired by anti-aircraft batteries, can stop an air fleet bent upon the destruction of a city. It is generally conceded that the only effective weapon in meeting an invasion of aircraft is an equally powerful air fleet.—Reuter Special.

Hunt To Save Whales

SAILORS SHOOT, BUT NOT TO KILL

London, May 14. Between seven and eight hundred whales are roaming the Antarctic seas with long steel bullets fired into their blubber.

This has been done with the object of discovering where the whales go at different periods of the year. The Royal Research Ship, William Goresby, has had the work in hand.

The vessel has just returned to London after seven months in the Antarctic seas on its whale marking expedition.

Already about a score of bullets have been recovered from whales captured by various whaling fleets.

Regulations may be made to protect the industry and to preserve the whales from danger of extinction, as a result of this "marking" operation by the British research party.—Reuter Special.

PARTNERSHIP DECISION

FIVE FIRMS RULED TO BE ONE

A decision of great importance to creditors of the Tung Tak firm of Lascar Road, against whom an interim receiving order is in force, was made by the Chief Justice, Mr. A. D. A. McGregor, at the Supreme Court this morning when he ruled on an issue of partnership that the Tung Tak, Tung Fook, Tung Lok, Tung Chan and Tung Woo firms were one and commercially the same.

The receiving order automatically became applicable to all the Tung firms, added his Lordship. Mr. F. C. Jenkin, K.C., was instructed by Mr. F. X. D'Almeida, S.R., for Arculli Brothers, petitioning creditors, and Mr. D. McNeill was instructed by Mr. F. H. Lecky of Ruse & Co., for the Tung Lok, Tung Fook, Tung Chan and Tung Woo firms who contested the allegation of petitioning creditors that they were partners of the Tung Tak.

REASONABLE SUSPICION

Mr. McNeill, in his address this morning, submitted that no evidence had been adduced to show that the Tung Tak were carrying on business at various places under the names of the firms mentioned in this action. The suspicions of the creditors were aroused by certain entries and a letter found among the Tung Tak books, and he was very far from suggesting that the petitioning creditors were not justified in thinking that there were circumstances calling for the fullest enquiry. This he would freely admit, but, at the same time, he did not think it fair for Mr. Arculli to state in his affirmation that the partners of the Tung Tak had left the premises without stating that the premises had in fact been sealed up, and there was no excuse for the partners being there. Mr. Arculli also had no ground for saying that he believed the Tung Tak were making away with their books, without which statement the receiving order made against them might perhaps have been withheld.

The books produced in Court showed nothing in the way of a departure from the ordinary dealings between wholesale and retail firms, and entries in the Tung Tak firm could not be evidence against his clients in this issue.

FAMILY CONNECTION

The chief points made against them were the strong family connection between members of the firm, which they did not deny, and which were further complicated by the fact that partners of the Tung Fook and Tung Woo were partners in the Tung Chan.

Another point was that the Tung Tak was started by the Tung Fook, Tung Woo, and Tung Chan because it was difficult to get credit from foreign leather wholesalers.

Counsel suggested that the Tung Tak may have been formed to overcome such a difficulty with the promise of support from the Tung firms, but this did not mean they were partners. The fact that Kam Mei, of the Tung Fook firm, lent over $70,000 to his relative in the Tung Tak firm was also no evidence of partnership, and the loans were repaid almost immediately. Something had been made of the fact that a Tung Tak employee had signed membership of the Leather Guild for the other Tung firms, but he suggested this could be taken as evidence for them as they each paid $50 membership fees.

As to other points raised by the petitioning creditors, counsel said the Tung Fook, Tung Chan and Tung Woo were formed before the Tung Tak and kept books showing separate partners and capital.

There was no record of profits of the Tung firms being turned over to Tung Tak, and as to the point that all the defendant firms consulted Russ & Co., this could not be evidence that they were partners. Russ & Co.'s only connection with Tung Tak was in allowing them to use their office for a creditors' meeting.

Yeung Sik-kwong had admitted affixing the stamps to the receipts at the time the receipts were made and if there was any question of forgery suggested by the other side, it could only concern Yeung Sik-kwong and not the other Tung firms. The suggestion that the receipts were forged because his clients knew that receipts were unnecessary between partners must have been made by Mr. Jenkin under a misapprehension, as even the humblest business people insisted on receipts.

MR. JENKIN'S REPLY

Mr. Jenkin dealt with the defendants' submissions briefly and reiterated that the Tung Tak books showed remarkable discrimination as between the other Tung firms and customers. The Tung Tak book which, on evidence, was stated to be a record of the "inside circle or family" members contained only the Tung names and excluded Canton firms who should have been included if defendants' submission that the book was a record of customers, was correct. This book had been a source of embarrassment to defendants which they had failed to overcome.

The Court bailiff, Mr. Bourchier had said he was unable to find any books at three of the firms upon which he called at Kowloon, and he suggested that his evidence was to be believed in the face of witnesses who said the books were in the shop and easily to be seen and had. The stamped receipts were absolute forgeries as he trusted he had fully satisfied the Court before, and the "coincidence" by which the firms gathered at Russ & Co.'s office was too remarkable to be believed.

JUDGE'S RULING

His Lordship said he did not propose to go over the evidence again, as plaintiff had produced a mass of testimony which, if not entirely conclusive against all the defendants, certainly gave rise to a very great deal of suspicion. He did not desire at this time, and it was not necessary for him to use immoderate or intemperate terms in saying that the evidence of the witnesses that Mr. Bourchier did not ask for or search for the books at their offices was completely undeserving of belief.

He was satisfied that the Tung Tak was started and financed by the defendants and that the plaintiffs were entitled to a declaration that the defendants and Tung Tak were one and the same. The declaration was accordingly made by his Lordship.

INTERNATIONAL HOCKEY

ENGLISH ELEVEN WINS

DANES BEATEN BY 11-1

(By C. S. W. Marcon)

They came, they saw, they were conquered. Defeated 11-1 by a Hockey Association team which included seven of this year's English XI, the Danes will now be able to gauge our full strength on the hockey field. They will not, one hopes, return home in any way depressed. They certainly showed no signs of depression on the field, and though outplayed in every department, kept their heads, and displayed an excellent spirit.

They certainly deserved their goal (scored by Frazer, after a well-earned movement), and this effort was applauded to the full by the crowd, who surrounded a pitch that, considering the heavy morning rain, played remarkably well.

NON-INTERNATIONALS

The four non-internationals in the H.A. XI, justified their inclusion, though I have seen Coxeter play better. The man whose play was delightful and whose future must contain one or more caps was McLean (right half). After each pass he makes to his forwards, he breaks at once into a run, anticipating the attack about to be made. He disguises the direction of his passes, and invariably finds his man. When he broke away with the ball from a corner against the H.A., and with no one in support, was checked only on the edge of the Danish circle, one admired his initiative.

Stuart dealt out cross-passes well, and when stopping passes on his reverse side used his stick brilliantly. Dickinson worked hard and unselfishly. The forward line revelled in the open spaces that loomed before them. Whitlock is an ideal pivot. Whitlock was brilliant in his dribbling, but his passes inwards are disproportionate in number to those given outwards. Ogilvy and Slade did more or less as

SOUTH AFRICANS WIN AGAIN

SURREY BEATEN AT OVAL

London, May 14.
Two more of the South African cricketers now on tour in England distinguished themselves in the match against Surrey at the Oval where the English county were defeated by 190 runs.

I. J. Siedle, the sound and experienced batsman from Natal, scored 104 runs and A. D. Nourse, the son of "Dave" Nourse who is so well known to the older generation of cricketers in England, contributed 108 runs. Siedle and Nourse were engaged in an unbroken third wicket partnership. The tourists scored 367 runs in their first innings, but after dismissing Surrey for 266 they made merry at the expense of the Oval bowlers. Only two wickets had fallen when Siedle and Nourse had their innings interrupted by the declaration with 280 runs on the board. Surrey again fell short of the South Africans' total, losing their last wicket for 191.

The heaviest scoring fixture of the series was that played at Portsmouth between Hampshire and Kent which was won by the visitors by seven wickets. Hampshire ran up the huge total of 424 runs, of which W. G. Lawndes contributed 118 while Kent replied with a score of 479, Fagg being top scorer with 122.

SET-BACK FOR YORKSHIRE

Gloucestershire and Nottinghamshire were engaged in a featureless match at Nottingham where the visitors took the points for a lead on first innings. Notts scored 260 and 270 while Gloucestershire made 288 and 13 without loss.

Bowlers held the upper hand in the fixture between Northants and Somerset at Taunton where the visitors won by 48 runs. In their first innings Northants scored 171 and then 237, Timms being the only batsman to stand up to the bowling. He scored 131 before being dismissed. Wellard captured five of the wickets for 64 runs in the second innings. Somerset were sent back for 285 and 75. Clark took five for 28 and Matthews gave for 31, causing the collapse of the Somerset batsmen.

ONCE AGAIN-YORKSHIRE HAVE MADE AN INDIFFERENT START IN THEIR CHAMPIONSHIP MATCHES, AND, WHEN PLAYING AGAINST DERBYSHIRE AT CHESTERFIELD, THEY WERE BEATEN ON FIRST INNINGS.

Derbyshire hit up 382 and dismissed Yorkshire for 328, Sutcliffe scoring 61. The second innings declaration (Continued on Page 9.)

They played. Milford, dribbling in and out, reached the goal line and flicked back to Whitlock, who opened the scoring. Whitlock to Dickinson, who ran and shot well; goal No. 2. Milford to Whitlock at the twenty-five; a long dribble by the latter, and long went No. 3. Again Whitlock scored, though he appeared to those of us who were opposite the vital spot to be offside when the pass to him was made. Then Milford made the total five with a high kick, and half-time arrived.

Afterwards, at a corner, the Danes appeared both to charge, and Milford scored. Then came an excellent goal by Frazer for Denmark. Milford scored twice, the second time following Slade's shot. Whitlock, after a brilliant dribble, scored No. 9. Then Milford again, from Dickinson's pass across the goalmouth. Whitlock brought up his tally of goals to equal Milford's (5), following a corner taken by Slade. Gry was bombarded at times and saved brilliantly.

"A" DIVISION MATCHES

CHINESE R. C. TRIUMPH

The Chinese Recreation Club are again favoured to win the "A" Division of the lawn tennis league and judging by their performances yesterday when the championship fixtures were commenced they have the best team among all the competitors.

The senior six, consisting of several young promising players, had no difficulty in beating the Club de Recreio while the junior side held the strong Indian R.C. combination to a division of the spoils. The Colony Doubles champions, S. A. and H. D. Rummah, were in partnership and won all their sets but the other L.R.C. pairs could only secure one and a half sets between them.

The full scores of the opening day's play follow:

RECREIO "A" v. C.R.C. "A"

Visiting the Club de Recreio, the Chinese R.C. "A" won by seven sets to two. Scores:

SCHAEFFER SCORES KNOCK OUT

IN SEARCH OF TITLE

Paul Schaeffer, the hard-hitting Canadian welter-weight, will shortly be qualified to fight for the British championship. Already he has knocked out the present holder of the title, Pat Butler, of Leicester; Billy Bird, of Chelsea; and George Hunter, one of the Northern hopes. Last month, at the Ring, he accounted for another and from Lancashire in Tommy Marren, of Banbury.

Marren tried long-range methods in vain against the Canadian, whose forcible punches put him down twice in the fourth round, and in the following round Schaeffer's left hook caused him to take the full count.

GREAT SHOTS IN GOLF DESCRIBED

GREATEST OF THE GREAT

SARAZEN'S DEUCE STROKE

Speaking of Great Golf, Gene Sarazen's double eagle two scored on the 485-yard 15th hole during the recent Bobby Jones Masters' Tournament at Augusta, Ga., is the greatest of the great.

Holes in one have been made in tournament competition by Paul Hahn, Leo Diegel, Ross Somerville, and others, but none can compare with this, the outstanding shot in the history of golf.

Granted that Gene is a strong finisher, as was proved at Frost Meadows in 1932, when he scored 66 in the final round to snatch the National Open crown away from the waiting hands of Phil Perkins, no one conceded him a chance of catching Craig Wood as he mounted the 15th hole.

Wood finished with 282, and Gene was three strokes behind. This would necessitate shaving a like number of strokes from par, finishing in 13 strokes against perfect figures of 5-3-4-4; even then Sarazen would only tie Wood.

But the seemingly impossible has happened in sports. Touchdowns have been scored after the final whistle had blown; baseball teams have come from behind to decide the issue in the ninth; and long shots have thundered down the stretch to cross the wire a winner. And here another long shot was to decide a championship.

Hole No. 15, which was played as No. 6 last year, is described in the Augusta National programme as a three-shot hole. It not only is an interesting three-shot hole, as one will be manoeuvring for position from the tee onward, but it also is a sporting two-shot hole.

A skillful and courageous player is able to pull his second shot around to the green with the aid of a large hillock to the right.

Gene's booming drive split the middle of the fairway and came to rest on the downward slope 255 yards from the tee, but in a caddy lie. He first took an iron from his bag, but an iron wouldn't carry the pond, more hazardous than a trap. He then selected a spoon, and smashed the ball. Away it soared, landed on the green, and dropped into the cup for a deuce, three under par, to pick up the three needed strokes for a chance to tie Wood.

In the 36-hole play off he defeated Wood by five strokes.

BEATEN AFTER EARLY ADVANTAGE

J. FRASER PLAYS BRILLIANTLY FOR WINNERS

ELEVEN SHOTS SCORED ON THREE HEADS DECIDE ISSUE

(By "Sagax")

As was foreshadowed during the week, the best game thus far in the local lawn bowls championship was that played on the Club de Recreio green yesterday afternoon when J. Fraser and A. Hyde Lay of the Kowloon Cricket Club met and defeated B. W. Bradbury and U. M. Omar of the Craigengower Cricket Club by 28 shots to 19 in the Pairs event. A sudden and complete change during the middle of the game turned what at one time appeared to be inevitable defeat for the Kowloon players into a glorious victory.

The metamorphosis came on the eleventh head after the Craigengower pair had been leading by eleven shots to six on the eighth. Omar, who had been playing a brilliant game faded away and his reversal of form inspired Hyde Lay to a much higher standard than he had been playing earlier in the match. Although he never reached the brilliance of his partner, Jack Fraser, the former Colony champion became much steadier and more than held his own against Omar while Fraser continued to play the best bowls of the day.

Bradbury was never in his best form and was completely out-played by his opponent throughout the match. Fraser was the outstanding player of the afternoon and rarely sent down an absolutely useless wood although there were times when he was erratic.

His consistency imposed an arduous task on Omar who proved equal to the occasion only during the first half of the game. Time and again the Craigengower skip had saved counters or had drawn shots but after a bad spell on the eleventh head Omar lost his touch and except for a three or two instances club mates clash but were never a match for their opponents.

HYDE LAY IMPROVES

Hyde Lay failed to follow up the useful work which his partner was putting in during the early stages but he was playing a sound game later and invariably sent down counters to increase the score.

Bradbury played his best head on the eighth when he sent down three counters to which Omar added a fourth to give the Craigengower representatives the lead by eleven shots to six after the Kowloon C.C. players had been ahead by 5-2 and then 6-4.

Two successive singles to Fraser and Hyde Lay were conceded on the next heads and then Omar had his bad lapse. Up to then, it was he who was playing the best bowls of the four—but a count of five was given away by the Craigengower pair.

Hyde Lay, with his first wood, rested Fraser's counter but Omar returned the compliment and then Hyde Lay knocked in the second shot. Omar gave away another while Hyde Lay followed up with two more counters for a score of five.

On the twelfth head Hyde Lay drew the first shot and then Omar gave away two, the score now being 19-11.

MARATHON TENNIS

TWO LONG DRAWN OUT SETS PLAYED

14-12 AND 17-15

London, May 14.
What must constitute a record for duration tennis was the match which was played at Eastbourne in the Davis Cup Competition between Australia and New Zealand.

Jack Crawford, the Australian, and A. H. Stedman were engaged in a match which went to 20 games in the first set and 32 in the second. Australia, it will be recalled, won the tie in the first three matches played and to-day Crawford and Stedman were engaged in one of the remaining two singles.

Crawford, the Wimbledon champion of two years ago, was fully extended by his opponent and was forced to 26 games before winning the first set at 14-12. In the second set an even more strenuous fight was made by the New Zealander who played doggedly until he was forced to concede the set at 17-15.

The third set opened with prospects of another duel but rain thought fit to interfere with the marathon and at 4-3 in favour of Crawford the match had to be abandoned.

The Australians are travelling to Paris to-morrow and will not, therefore, complete the tie against New Zealand.—Reuter.

UNUSUAL PENALTY INCIDENT

REFEREE MAKES DISCOVERY

BALL OUT OF PLAY

There was an unusual incident some 15 minutes from the end of the football match between Fulham and Manchester United at Craven Cottage on April 20 when the hosts, leading 3-1 on their merits, were defending stubbornly to prevent Manchester from sharing the honours.

Barnford, who had always been a source of danger suddenly broke through at that critical period to reach within a few yards of the Fulham goal-line. He was then heavily charged off the ball by Gibbons.

Amid considerable surprise the referee, Mr. G. W. Jones, instantly signalled for a penalty kick, only to discover that the ball had previously been out of play for several moments.

Bishop Auckland's Sixth Amateur Cup

WIMBLEDON BAULKED BY A STUBBORN DEFENCE

(By Norman Ackland)

London, April 22.
Bishop Auckland lived up to their splendid traditions in the F.A. Amateur Cup competition when on Saturday at Stamford Bridge they realised their ambitions to be the first team to win the trophy six times. They achieved this feat by beating Wimbledon by 2 goals to 1.

If the history of the amateur game is ever written this reply will deserve a chapter to itself. It was one of the greatest feats of all time. Three weeks in a match of this sort, but seldom have I seen such a high standard of football maintained in a game played at such a terrific pace. Wimbledon were presented with a gift goal in the first few minutes and could not again pierce the resolute Bishop Auckland defence, and yet it could not be said that they deserved to lose.

When the Northerners took the lead early in the second half their half-backs fell back on defence and the Bishop Auckland defence, and yet it could not be said that they deserved to lose.

For the winners the laurels must go to the defence. The understanding that existed between Hopps, the goalkeeper, and the backs was little short of uncanny. In the face of such heavy pressure it was only natural that Hopps should sometimes be caught out of position, and on these occasions either Mitty or the sound defender on the field—Scott would pop up like a jack-in-the-box and the ball, instead of being in the net, would be safely cleared, although only by the adoption of the questionable tactics of kicking out, of which the crowd strongly and rightly disapproved.

Strachan found Dowden much more difficult to hold than he was at Middlesbrough, but Shield, the left-half, actually the most promising player of the side, was too strong and too clever for the youthful Leslie Smith.

One could not but sympathise with Dowden for being foiled in his magnificent attempt to crown his great career by leading his club's attack to victory. Watching his brilliant and inspired attempts to break through the strongest defence in the amateur game, I found it hard to realise that this great centre-forward had actually emerged from retirement to help his club out of a difficulty some months ago.

A FATAL MISTAKE

There were 35,000 spectators (receipts £2,181)—the second biggest crowd for a final—and but for a heavy downpour of rain the start would have been a record. The match, when it started, was a very close one. Three minutes from the start Dowden chased a centre, and was allowed to run in and score, while the Bishop Auckland defenders were appealing for a foul—a foolish action on their part, because Dr. Barton was in a perfect position to see everything. They might have given away another goal through making a similar appeal later on, but this time Turner's shot was saved by Hopps.

For the first half-hour the whole Wimbledon team played like men possessed. Barnes, Dowden, and Zentgraf tested Hopps with shots from all angles. By one extraordinary trick of chance one shot from Zentgraf appeared certain to go into the net, but the English goalkeeper, who had not struck the right rebound into play, Dowden, too, was unfortunate not to score when a great shot from him hit the bar. The captain, Northern team, waited until Wimbledon had played themselves out, and then launched one of these rapid, and have served them well in previous rounds. After some clever constructive play by Shield, the ball went to Birtbeck. His shot hit the bar, rolled to the feet of Hogg, and the outside-left sent across a centre. Bryan took this and shot, but the ball rebounded off Birtbeck to Wilson, who shot hard into the net.

DOWDEN'S GREAT EFFORT
Bishop Auckland maintained their attack, and were awarded a free-kick, which was splendidly taken by Shield. The ball went to Bryan, who, with only Irish to beat, shot wide. Then Dowden made his most spectacular effort of the match. He took the ball down in a close and clever dribble and shot at close range. The ball cannoned off Hopps, and when Dowden headed it back again, it was gathered by the Bishop Auckland goalkeeper.

Three minutes after the interval, Bryan snapped up a pass from Stephenson, and crashed the ball through a crowd of players into the net to give Bishop Auckland a lead which they certainly did not deserve on the run of the play. The rest of the match was simply one prolonged struggle between Wimbledon's forwards and goalkeeper. Twice Hopps was hurt in making lion-hearted saves. Mitty and Scott made some miraculous clearances, three times the ball crashed against the bar, but still the great Bishop Auckland defence held out.

Dowden's culminating disappointment came when he drew the opposing backs out of position, and sent the ball across to Smith. He stood unmarked waiting for the return pass, but Smith lost his head and tried to go through on his own. Dowden lifted his hands despairingly when he saw the best chance of the match lost.

FIXTURE

English Side Beat Continentals

(By Marjorie Pollard)

Amsterdam.
Weather was perfect at the Kennemer Lyceum, Bloemendaal, for the first women's hockey match between England and Holland, but the composition-covered ball was not easy to control.

England deserved their 5-0 victory if only for the superior speed which they showed in making their passes. The Dutch team seemed to rely solely on hard hitting. Although the game was much slower than that against Germany, it was always exciting, and the contrast in methods was interesting to watch. By half-time England were leading by three goals to nil. I scored the first, and Miss Redman the other two. Our method of attack was changed, as there seemed to be a difference of interpretation of the off-side rule. At one time it appeared that we should never score.

After the interval Holland certainly had more of the game, and Miss Redman, in the English goal, and another lot to do, and she certainly did it well. But the Dutch defence was kept very busy, and although the circle was often full of defending players, we were able to get in many shots, two of which scored goals. These were hit by Mrs. Piley and Miss Redman.

The game was never really scientific, and England could not overcome the hard-hitting Dutch defence. Miss Kelly, Campbell, and Miss Dubois played resolutely and with great determination. The half-backs were best in defence, and the forwards found the English defence too good altogether. Miss Holland, the left wing, was very fast, and would get a place in an English Territorial side. The English team seemed a bit tired at times, but several players did well. Miss Redman scored three fine goals. Miss Carlbach, Miss Muddox, and Miss Blackland made a great half-back line, and they held the Dutch forwards without much difficulty.

As usual Miss Knott played magnificently, and some of her tackles were really brilliant. Although we won by five clear goals, each one had to be worked for, and Dutch hockey, although only about 12 years old—is improving rapidly.

was applied when Derbyshire had made 211 for six, of which Alderman had contributed 100. Verity had five victims for 74 runs. At the close of play Yorkshire had lost four wickets for 102 runs.

Washbrook, a young batsman who has not had a great deal of experience, knocked off the first double century of the season when he scored 228 for Lancashire against Oxford University at Oxford where the county champions won by an innings and 30 runs, after totalling 498 for seven wickets declared. Oxford scored 239 (Mitchell-Innes 102) and then following on, 228.—Reuter.

BRADBURY AND OMAR OUT

LOSE IN BOWLS COMPETITION

16-11 in favour of the Kowloon C. C. pair. Omar recovered his accuracy on the thirteenth head and trilled the jack to lay two shots but Hyde Lay drew two successive shots and knocked in a third to give his side eleven in the last three heads.

A TELLING CHANGE

The change demoralised the Craigengower pair but they were not to be beaten so easily and returned with a three on the next head. Fraser and Hyde Lay took the score to 23-15 on the 18th head by singles and a two on the 19th head put the issue beyond doubt with a four.

On this head Hyde Lay, with his second shot, drew to the jack and lay one with a measure for the second but Omar, in attempting to break up the head, merely took out the Craigengower wood to give the K. C. C. pair an undisturbed two. Hyde Lay drew a third and again Omar drove but without success. When Hyde Lay sent down a fourth counter Omar was given further instructions to drive but he missed by a wide margin.

The score on the 20th head was 28-15 in favour of Fraser and Hyde Lay who conceded a four on the final head to win by 28-19.

MACAO'S BID FOR POPULARITY

NEW ENTERTAINMENT PLANS

An effort to draw attention to Macao through the establishment of an entertainment hall, combining all the usual programmes of music, dancing, cinema performances, as well as drinks of all kinds, and food, particularly Portuguese cuisine, though Chinese meals will also be provided, in conjunction with the amenities of club life, is a feature of the new policy of the Macao authorities.

Established under the direct control of the Macao Economic Studies Department, the object of the new departure is to make visits to Macao as interesting as possible, and not only will the new establishments attempt to provide visitors with all conveniences under one roof, but they will also do everything possible to encourage interest in the historic and other attractions of the Colony.

In order that it may be easy for visitors to make the trip to Macao in comfort and as expeditiously as possible, arrangements are being made to place fast and comfortable steamers on the run between Macao and Hongkong as well as Canton.

The opening ceremony of the first of the new establishments is to take place on May 18, when the "Victoria" Palace is to be formally inaugurated in the presence of many distinguished visitors.
